PIG STY EXILE CURED —WITH SOAP AND WATER

ROENNE, Denmark (UPI)—Doctors today began rehabilitating a 38-year-old man who lived with pigs for a year. They gave him a bath.

He exiled himself to the pig sty last summer after losing his job as a fisherman. He hid in the pig shack for a year. He told police he was too ashamed to face his family and friends because of losing his job as a fisherman.

WINS $500 IN SILHOUETTE CONTEST

Sailor's Wife Scores With Perfect Game

By MONTE ROBERTS

Mrs. Leslie Schley, of 10136 Third Avenue, Sidney, won the top prize of $500 in the Times Silhouette contest and she just can't believe it.

Not only did she win first prize, her entry was the one perfect score. She matched every one of the 60 silhouettes with the correct photo.

Other prize winners had varying numbers of errors. Winning puzzle contests is a habit she's been trying to cultivate for years.

But, until her victory in the silhouette contest, she had battled a miserable 000.

"This is my very first win," she said, when told the $500 was hers. "I can't believe it, really I can't."

Mrs. Schley found it even harder to believe that her score was 100 per cent correct.

"I honestly don't know how it happened," she said. "I was reasonably sure I was right with some of the puzzles. But the day before I sent in my entry, there were more than a dozen I think about 16—that just didn't seem to match up."

GUESSED
So Mrs. Schley and her husband, Leslie, a leading seaman attached to the navy air base at Patricia Bay, sat down together and "just matched them up by guessing."

The odds against being exactly right were astronomical.

Winners of $750 in prizes in the Times Silhouette Contest were announced today.

More than 800 people followed the contest faithfully for 10 weeks and submitted complete entries.

Here are the money winners:

Second prize, $100: Mrs. W. J. Goldsmith, 3903 Braefoot Road.

Third prize, $50: Mrs. A. E. Roos, 1770 Keith Place.

Consolations, four of $25: Mrs. J. L. Wightman, 3795 Duke Road; I. Brownlee, 5036 Sunrise Terrace, Cordova Bay; John Eaton, 1311 George Street, and Margaret Nicholson, no address listed.

(Mrs. or Miss Nicholson is asked to contact the Times and identify herself. Cheques to other winners will be mailed immediately.)

The judges announced that the correct answers to the 60 silhouettes will continue to appear daily until completed so that all contestants may check their answers.

ical—but every guess was on the button.

Mrs. Schley explained that she and Leslie did a considerable amount of research on the rest of the puzzles. They studied newspapers and magazines to identify the profiles and match them up with the correct numbers.

"But it was simply a matter of luck," Mrs. Schley insists. "I've never been lucky before, and for years I've entered every contest that came along."

The Schleys were married in Nova Scotia, when LS Schley was training at HMCS Cornwallis. He was posted to Patricia Bay last August, and they became Times subscribers the day they arrived here.

The Schleys have a four-year-old son, Iona Vancouver Island and hope they'll never be transferred.

As for the $500 prize, Mrs. Schley says "there are lots of places we can use it."

Currently she is taking part in a nationwide contest with a 1959 car as first prize.

"But I won't be lucky again, I'm sure I won't," perennially pessimistic Mrs. Schley avers.

Queen Opens Airport

Crowds Line Route
Across Newfoundland

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made a one-hour visit to this busy airport today as they flew across Newfoundland on the first leg of their Canadian tour.

Most of Gander's 5,000 residents and several thousand more from neighboring districts lined the streets as they made a 30-minute drive through the town.

Earlier the Queen officially opened the new $3,500,000 terminal at Gander international airport.

Then the RCAF plane carrying them westward across the province flew to Deer Lake, 34 miles from Corner Brook. They drove into Corner Brook by car along the beautiful Humber River.

WHOLE TOWN OUT

It appeared that all the 3,500 citizens of Deer Lake were lining the town streets as the royal car drove slowly past. The Queen waved and smiled at the flag-waving children filling the front ranks.

The Queen and prince smiled broadly and waved to the crowd as they boarded the plane at Gander. Philip, who had dropped behind the Queen, ran halfway to the ramp.

They flew to Gander under leaden skies. The fog that threatened to disrupt proceedings Thursday still clung to the coastline.

George Hees, Canada's transport minister, greeted them at the entrance to the H-shaped terminal building.

A small group of about 14 officials clustered at the foot of the ramp as the Queen descended, smiling warmly. She wore a light topcoat, white hat and a coral-colored dress with three strands of pearls.

She entered the building with Mr. Hees, waving a greeting to a group of about 50 airport employees standing behind an RCAF guard of honor.

RCMP maintained a tight rein on the crowd. Only reporters bearing Royal Tour credentials for all parts of Canada were admitted to the area where the opening ceremony took place.

The royal couple began the

Princess Rides Alone

ASCOT, England. (AP)—Princess Margaret rode her annual race at the Royal Ascot track today—but without her usual opponent, the Queen.

For two years straight Margaret and her sister have staged an unofficial race at Ascot. Today the Queen was in Canada.

In the earlier races, Margaret was the winner.

Today, riding a black horse, the pretty princess trotted and cantered around the course with a party of friends.

'KICK BANKS OUT' PLEA APPLAUDED IN HOUSE

(See Also Page 31)

OTTAWA (CP)—Deportation of United States-born Hal C. Banks, Canadian head of the Seafarers' International Union, was suggested today in the Commons.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) proposed deportation to Immigration Minister Fairclough, who promptly replied that she has no legal authority to kick Banks out of the country.

There was applause from every quarter of the Commons when Mr. Herridge made his suggestion.

Banks' 12,000-member union was suspended Thursday from the Canadian Labor Congress for raiding another congress affiliate, the National Association of Marine Engineers.

STEAMROLLER WIN

Record Vote For Socreds In Alberta

List of Elected MLAs Page 9

By PHIL ADLER, Canadian Press Staff Writer
EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's Social Credit government almost wiped out all opposition forces Thursday, scoring one of the biggest general election land-slides in Canadian politics.

A record vote gave the government its seventh consecutive five-year mandate by a margin greater than that of 1935 when Social Credit made its successful debut as a political party.

Opposition strength dropped to four from 24 in the last legislature and may stand at three when the first session is called. One Independent Social Creditor who retained his seat is expected to be taken back into ranks. He was read out in 1944.

Redistribution this year increased the number of seats in the new legislature by four to 65. Party standing at the dissolution of the last legislature was unchanged from the 1955 election result.

Social Credit's 61-seat victory was likened to the 1945 election in Nova Scotia when 28 Liberals and two CCF members were elected in the 30-seat House. When Social Credit came to power in 1935 it took 56 of the 63 seats at stake and wiped out the United Farmers of Alberta party.

STOOD ON RECORD

The government campaigned on its 24-year performance record while opposition candidates pledged more aid for municipalities, education and agriculture.

The leaders of all three opposition parties were defeated in their first general election since being chosen. And the election marked the first serious challenge for power by the Progressive Conservatives.

It was Social Credit's fifth election victory under the leadership of 51-year-old Premier E. C. Manning, who combines religious work with political duties.

Mr. Manning, who also holds the portfolios of attorney-general and minister of mines and minerals, was returned along with the 12 members of his cabinet.

The vote total was a record—more than 406,000. An estimated 600,000 persons are eligible to cast ballots. The previous record was set in 1955 when 378,000 valid ballots were cast.

Unable to Reach Any Agreement

(From Times News Services)

GENEVA—The Big Four foreign ministers' conference collapsed today and went into a three-week recess after 40 days of talks that got nowhere.

Last-minute proposals by both East and West failed to achieve any measure of agreement on Berlin or Germany.

The decision to recess until July 13 came after Russia made a final offer, to extend Western occupation rights in Berlin from 12 to 18 months.

A formal windup session of the current conference will be held Saturday.

NO HOPE

The three Western foreign ministers studied the Russian proposals for three hours and then returned to a private session with Foreign Minister Gromyko to give their reply.

They were grim-faced as they drove to Gromyko's villa. Western officials said during the three-hour break in the Big Four talks that the Russian plan offered no hope of agreement.

A Western spokesman said it was understood that Gromyko "has not accepted the Western proposals for a stopgap Berlin agreement even as a basis for discussion."

A speech in Moscow today by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, apparently finally rejecting the West's compromise offer, added to the gloom at Geneva.

Russia's new proposals also were reported to call for a non-aggression treaty between East and West Germany pending German reunification.

The British spokesman said: "Mr. Gromyko has not accepted the Western proposals for an interim solution of the Berlin problem even as a basis for discussion."

Furthermore, the Soviet position as put forward this afternoon by Mr. Gromyko, coupled with Mr. Khrushchev's speech, has given no new hope to the Western delegations for a solution."

In Moscow, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said if Russia is forced to sign a peace treaty with East Germany it would be an "illusion" for the West to believe its rights of communications with West Berlin would remain.

East Germany, he said, would become a sovereign nation through a peace treaty and it would be up to the East Germans to decide on the maintenance of Berlin's communications.

Speaker Refuses Inquiry

Pearson Overruled
On Whip's Conduct

OTTAWA (CP)—Commons Speaker Roland Michener today rejected Opposition Leader Pearson's motion of privilege calling for a parliamentary inquiry into the conduct of government whip John Pallett.

Mr. Pearson immediately appealed the Speaker's ruling and the House divided for a vote.

The Speaker was upheld by a vote of 131 to 32 with the three CCF MPs in the Commons at the time splitting. Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) and Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) voted with the government majority and H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) sided with the Liberals.

'UNPRECEDENTED'

This was the first time a Speaker's ruling had been appealed since the 1956 pipeline debate during the former Liberal administration when there were 234 appeals of rulings.

Mac Ready to Fly For Western Summit

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today was reported ready to fly to Washington or Paris for a Western summit meeting.

His plan would be to thrash out with President Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle and possibly Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the West's next move in negotiations with Russia.

A secondary aim would be to resolve American and British disagreement with France over locating nuclear warhead stockpiles on French territory. De Gaulle has refused to accept these stockpiles unless France has a voice in their control.

Macmillan is expected to press his Allies to agree to a conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev regardless of Geneva results. It is widely known that Macmillan believes top-level East-West talks offer the best chance to settle the Berlin crisis.

Flag Protest Cancelled As Royal Insult Feared

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse says Royal Tour security officials have ordered cancellation of a demonstration planned in the Saguenay area by students and young workers to draw the Queen's attention to what they described as Canada's lack of a national flag.

A report from the newspaper's Chicoutimi, Que., correspondent says that the demonstration was planned by 300 youths grouped together in a "Society for the promotion of the Canadian flag."

During the Queen's tour of the area early next week the youths planned to carry placards bearing this slogan in French and in English:

"Bienvenue à notre Souveraine, welcome to our Queen"; "Dommage le Canada n'a pas de drapeau—sorry Canada has no flag."

The report says the Royal Tour security committee felt that the demonstration, while well intentioned, might lead to "more serious troubles." The committee was said to fear that the words "sorry Canada has no flag" might be considered an insult to the Queen.

Claude Gousse, president of the flag movement, said that his group will bow to the security committee's order and will cancel the planned demonstration.

But the security committee was successful in another of its projects—the elimination of the Union Jack from decorations on business establishments and schools. Flags provided for children along the route to be followed by the Queen also would not include the Union Jack.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

As today rushes in upon us with its strident demands, help us to "Be still and know that Thou art God." As the crowd presses about us, help us to look up above to see Thee so that we can turn to our task with the knowledge of Thy care, the assurance of Thy guidance, and the promise of Thy strength to augment our weakness; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Royal Couple's Busy Day Ends at '3 a.m.'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Queen went to bed at the equivalent of 3 o'clock in the morning after the busy first day of her tour of Canada.

It was really 11:30 p.m., Newfoundland time, when the Queen and Prince Philip retired; but they had been operating on British time since they left London Thursday morning.

The Royal Couple wound up a busy arrival schedule with a private dinner at Government House, where Lieutenant-Governor Campbell MacPherson was host. Among the guests were Premier Smallwood, and members of the governor's and the Queen's staffs.

Three thousand residents, and Newfoundlanders from surrounding outposts who had been trickling into this ancient port city for days, watched the BOAC jet Comet carrying the Royal Couple taxi to a stop Thursday morning.

They stared and grinned at the Queen, smiling attractively, and a hat-twirling Prince Philip stepped slowly down the ramp to begin their 15,000-mile tour. A 21-gun salute boomed out, a navy guard of honor snapped to attention, a band broke into God Save the Queen.

Governor-General Massey, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Smallwood greeted the Royal Couple. Guests and tour officials were introduced while the crowd of tanned Newfoundlanders stood watching.

At an archway of evergreens, Mayor Harry Mews and city council members awaited the limousine which brought the Royal Couple the 10 miles from Torbay. It halted at the archway. Municipal officials and their wives paid their respects.

Speaking to Mr. Mews, the Queen remarked on the number of cameras held by onlookers who were being held back by an RCMP cordon.

Prince Philip talked of the weather with Mayor Mews. It was bright and sunny in London when the Comet took off, he said.

Weather was the chief subject of conversation from the moment the Royal Couple landed.

The visit narrowly missed being thrown off schedule as blinding fog on the Atlantic coast almost paralyzed air communications over Newfoundland. It lifted just before the Comet arrived.

However, only hours after the Queen and her husband stepped into an open limousine to tour part of this old city, picturesquely set at the bottom of a mountain-ringed inlet, fog moved back over the whole island.

While the city lights blinked dimly through an evening fog, the Royal Couple retired to the stone, tree-surrounded residence of Newfoundland's lieutenant-governor. All was light and color earlier along St. John's streets lined by a crowd of about 80,000.

From silent awe, following a brief spontaneous cheer at the airport, the crowd's reaction warmed up to lusty cheering and flag waving along the city streets.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(From Times News Services)

NEW YORK—Mrs. Sara Nelson, who weighs less than her age—98 pounds to 100 years—denies breaking her hip while ballet dancing.

But, the little lady admits, "I was kicking up my heels a bit."

Mrs. Nelson, who will be 101 July 6, explained Thursday night how she came to be in hospital for the first time in her life.

She said she fell while getting food out of the refrigerator of her apartment.

When a policeman arrived and asked her what happened, she told him, "Oh, I was kicking up my heels a bit."

But as for the police report that she had been ballet dancing, she snorted: "I don't know where they got that ridiculous idea."

LONDON—Daily Mirror columnist William Connor, convicted last week of libelling American piano player Liberace, opened his first "Cassandra" column following the court action this way: "Let us now proceed. "And the subject is the innocuous one of cricket."

ATLANTA—The Webb twins, Lloyd and Floyd, 26, both became fathers Thursday.

Mrs. Lloyd Webb, 24, gave birth to a five-pound, seven-ounce girl at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Floyd Webb, 22, gave birth at 10 a.m. to a seven-pound boy.

JOHANNESBURG—A 38-year-old African mother of 10 has given birth to quadruplets in the South African port city of East London.

The mother, Nobilka Leve, and three of the quads are reported doing well. The fourth quad was described as in "doubtful" condition.

LONDON—Actor Anthony Quinn said today it was a "doggone lousy thing to do" when reporters asked his newly arrived wife, Catherine, what she thought about her actor-husband's night on the town in Paris with Kim Novak.

"I know nothing of it," Mrs. Quinn said, arriving from the U.S.

Reporters noted that the Hollywood style clinch which ended his evening with Kim had been photographed by all the newspapers. He explained both he and Kim had "affectionate" natures.

Asked how long his wife would remain in London he grumbled, "maybe she will go back tomorrow, now."

Atom Site Talks Due

OTTAWA (UPI)—Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said today consultations between various interested parties will be held before a site is picked for Canada's 60,000,000 atomic power station.

Golf Leaders

MONTREAL (CP)—Art Wall Jr. and Dow Finsterwald today led early second-round finishers in the Canadian Open golf championship with scores of 136.

MONTREALER TO GIVE OWN ROYAL PARTY

MONTREAL (UPI)—A Montreal city councillor disclosed today he would boycott a lavish ball for Queen Elizabeth and throw his own open air party during the royal visit here June 25.

Frank Hanley, who also is an independent provincial member of parliament, invited Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower to attend.

"I expect the courtesy of a reply," he said.

Hanley's ball will cost an estimated $100 compared with the $100,000 he estimates the city hall will spend entertaining the Queen and her husband.

Hanley said he was boycotting the civic ball because "it would not be pleasant for me to be drinking champagne and eating pheasant at a time when the city is laying off workers."

'No Margin For Mistakes'

LONDON (CP)—The New Statesman says there is already sufficient minority criticism of the Royal Tour among "fairly vocal groups" in Canada to make it clear that there is no margin for mistakes.

The left-wing magazine's Fleet Street column, by Francis Williams, also discusses what it calls the "now mutual hostility" between Prince Philip and the press, particularly photographers.

The article says relations between the press and Philip have been getting "progressively worse" but says this does not apply to the Queen, Princess Margaret, or the Queen Mother.

STRICTLY PERSONAL, SHE WON'T RETRACT

Joyce Still 'Indifferent' —But to Visit, Not Queen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Canadian television star Joyce Davidson appeared again on the Dave Garraway program over NBC today and reiterated her statement of Thursday that she is indifferent to the visit to Canada of Queen Elizabeth.

However, she stressed that she spoke only for herself and added that she was indifferent to the visit, not to the Queen herself.

Garraway, introducing the blonde Toronto girl, said he had asked her to appear again to "retract, alter or confirm" her remarks of Thursday.

"It's important," she said, "that I make it clear that I speak for myself. These were my own opinions and not the opinions of all Canadians."

Miss Davidson found herself embroiled in a tempest after receiving hundreds of demands for apologies for her remarks Thursday.

Many of her critics said they objected because Miss Davidson, a regular performer on the CBC show "Tabloid," had indicated she was speaking for most Canadians.

Toronto Mayor Nathan Phillips demanded Miss Davidson apologize for "an irresponsible statement."

Miss Davidson said that when Garraway asked her about the Royal tour, "I had to answer honestly."

But she said her answer did not reflect on the Queen. "I think she's gorgeous."

The CBC star said she had told Garraway, "I, like the average Canadian, am rather indifferent to the Queen's visit. I am not overwhelmed."

Murray Caplan, president of the Spadina Progressive Conservative Association said new Canadians resented the fact that Miss Davidson had said 60 per cent of Canadians came from outside the British Isles and consequently were indifferent to the Queen.

Ike Blasts Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower bitterly criticized the Senate today for rejecting Lewis L. Strauss' nomination as secretary of commerce.

He said "the American people are the losers."

Strauss was refused confirmation by a 49 to 46 Senate vote Thursday. The action automatically removed him from the cabinet post he has held since last November by a recess appointment.

Two Republicans deserted their party ranks to oppose Strauss.

It was the first time in 34 years that the Senate had rejected a presidential appointee to the cabinet.

Republicans felt that Strauss lost for personal reasons. The Democrats had charged that he was contemptuous of Congress, took a high-handed attitude toward governmental affairs and could not be trusted by the legislative branch.

Strauss said that he had tried to do the best he could to serve the national interests "as I saw it" even though his position might be unpopular.

Asked for an example of what he meant by unpopular, Strauss said he thought advocating development of the hydrogen bomb at the time he was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission fell in that category.

Eisenhower had stood firmly by his nominee during the acrimonious fight over confirmation.

His formal statement described Strauss as a man who had served "loyally, honorably and effectively" under four presidents.

He went on to say that if the nation was to be denied the right to have Strauss serve in the cabinet, then the American people are the losers.

W. Canada Trend Seen by Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett hailed the Alberta Social Credit landslide Thursday night and interpreted it as a trend for western Canada.

"The result clearly shows that the people of western Canada... will have no part of meaningless political promises."

He said, "The complete collapse of Conservative ambitions is a direct and thoroughly justified result of Conservative performance in Ottawa—of extravagant election promises followed by poor performance."

"Never in the political history of our country has a party collapsed so quickly, as the Conservative party in western Canada."

He recalled that the Conservative party campaigned federally for abolition of "tight money" and lower interest rates, but interest rates are higher than they have been in 40 years.

Premier Bennett wired Premier Manning: "Heartiest congratulations on your most outstanding victory. This great vote of confidence from the citizens of Alberta, after 24 years in office, must give you tremendous personal satisfaction."

Premier Bennett's appraisal of the showing of the CCF and Liberals, which he called the two leftist parties, was summed up in a single word, pitiful.

IN PARLIAMENT

'Federal Frankenstein Rules Roost'—Senator

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Senator Harold Connolly Thursday took the Senate down the Boulevard of Broken Tax Dreams to a "federal Frankenstein" at the end.

And, he said during debate on extension for another year of existing federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements:

"The federal Frankenstein, no matter how benevolent it may appear to be and is in some cases, rules the roost."

A former Liberal premier of Nova Scotia, he described himself as an apostle of provincial rights and "a voice crying in the new economic wilderness."

He retraced income tax steps down "the Boulevard of Broken Dreams" to show how it all came about.

The first income tax legislation had been introduced, with reluctance, as, a temporary expediency because of a war emergency in 1917.

As another temporary war-time measure in 1941, the federal government had persuaded provinces to vacate the personal and corporation income tax fields in return for payments from Ottawa.

And in the 1957 election campaign, Prime Minister Diefenbaker had promised the provinces a better deal and an end to excessive taxation and centralization.

But nothing had changed. There was no indication when, if ever, the provinces would be released from their "bondage" to the central government.

In the Commons, Raymond Eudes (L., Montreal Hochelaga) suggested that the government has taken upon itself to abolish hanging for murder in Canada.

He was neither for nor against capital punishment, but if the government wanted to abolish it, then this should be done by bringing the necessary legislation to Parliament for approval.

Justice Minister Fulton, during debate on his department's estimates, expressed regrets to Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) that so little progress has been made in improving Canada's handling of drug addicts. But he still hoped something could be done after a justice department committee reports on this and other penal problems by the end of the year.

Jobless Insurance Changes Voted

Liberals sought to kill a section of the government's unemployment insurance legislation that will boost employer and employee contributions to the unemployment insurance fund by an average 30 per cent.

"The man with the dinner pail is being made to pay for the fiscal mistakes of the government," was the charge of W. H. McMillan (L., Welland) who attempted to have the section deleted and leave current rates of contribution in effect.

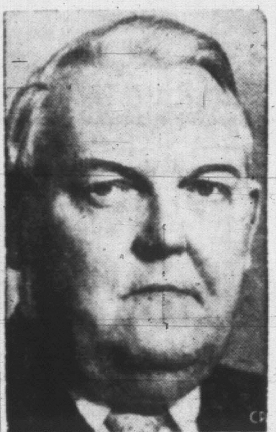

After that with only a slight hitch, the Commons completed clause-by-clause study of the measure which has been the subject of the longest running battle of the session. Only third reading—usually a formality—remains before it goes to the Senate.

Senator David Croll (L., Ontario) said rates of Canadian insurance companies are identical.

He made the statement in the Senate finance committee after E. R. Alexander, vice-president for finance of Sun Life Assurance Company, said in a brief that "one of the most potent forces in the fight against inflation is effective competition." The committee is studying the threat of inflation in Canada.

Mr. Alexander said he was "not sure" that Senator Croll was right. "I think there are differences in rates," he said.

Sir John A's Granddaughter Dies Aged 83

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. Isabella Mary Gainsford, granddaughter of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister, died here Thursday. She was 83.

She was 14 when Sir John died in 1891 and was the last member of her family who knew him personally. She was the daughter of Sir Hugh John Macdonald, a premier of Manitoba.

A lively woman for her age, Mrs. Gainsford attended the opening of the Manitoba legislature last week and appeared on Front Page Challenge—a television program from Toronto—May 19.

TROOP CARRIERS CALLED IN Africa Riots Brew Again In Wake of Fiery Frenzy

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)—Police called for heavy armored troop carriers today as rebellious African women began gathering again around beer halls in the riot-torn non-white townships here.

One of the beer halls involved was wrecked by infuriated Negro rioters Thursday night.

The threat of renewed trouble came as flames still flickered in the ruins of 25 buildings burned in Thursday's violence, in which three Africans were shot dead and unknown numbers injured in day-long clashes between 5,000 Negroes and hundreds of white policemen in the townships of Cato Manor and Cheshire.

POLICEMAN WOUNDED

A white policeman, shot during the orgy of arson and furious racial strife, was not in serious condition.

Cato Manor, scene of bloody race riots between Africans and Indians 10 years ago which cost 142 lives—was an inferno Thursday night as police battled rioters by the light of blazing buildings.

Infuriated Africans, a few armed with guns, others waving clubs or hurling stones and bottles, swarmed through the streets setting fire to government offices, schools, stores and houses, wrecking cars and buses.

One of the immediate causes of the riots appeared to be resentment at official handling of a slum-clearance project in Cato Manor. An African leader claimed Africans in the township has been "ruthlessly evicted" by police.

The other was anger over "indiscriminate" raids by police on natives making home-brewed Kaffir beer, which competes with municipal-brewed beer sold in African beer halls.

ON CREDIT UNION RESERVES

City Man Appointed To New B.C. Board

Appointment of four Vancouver and one Victoria credit union officials to a provincial credit union reserve board was announced Thursday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

They are R. F. Williams, president Victrol Credit Union, of Victoria, and D. W. Bentley, David Harper, Leslie Wong and F. B. Dickinson, all of Vancouver credit unions.

They will administer a new fund which they are authorized to raise from all B.C. credit unions, to assist any credit union which might be in financial difficulties.

Mr. Bonner noted: "Fortunately the credit unions of British Columbia are in a strong and healthy position. The reserve fund, however, is a wise measure for added stability."

RCAF Flies Island Girl To Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP)—An eight-year-old Vancouver Island girl, flown here Thursday night for treatment after a 25-cent piece had lodged in her throat, was reported in good condition today.

An RCAF plane made the mercy flight to pick up Rise Harris at Port Hardy, where she had been taken by boat from Holberg, a logging community in the northern section of the island.

The mercy flight was ordered when doctors said the coin had lodged about halfway down her esophagus and that she needed immediate treatment. The RCAF plane reached Vancouver shortly before midnight.

Bigger Floats Set For Lamb Barbecue

SATURNA ISLAND—Preparations are under way here for the annual lamb barbecue July 1 at Saturna Beach when 1,200 visitors are expected.

Twenty-six lambs will be barbecued before open fires on the beach. Dinner will be served at 2:30 p.m., but sports for the children and games for adults will begin at 11 a.m.

Enlarged floats are being built this year to accommodate the more than 100 small and large boats which are expected to attend.

FACELIFT

The barbecue grounds will wear a new face, as islanders are now busy building new booths and games. Recognizing that the big show of the day is the myriad of yachts, fish boats, putt-putts,

The emotions of being a father...

The emotions of being a father stay constant through the ages. The hopes and fears... the wishes and apprehensions. The humbling realization that no other task in all the world carries with it so grave a responsibility, so rewarding a victory as that of being a father.

For where else does a boy look... for light which will lead to sure places for young feet to stand... for guidance through the great continent of the mind... for those words and teachings that will open wisdom's way... for a held-out hand, a haven in every sudden storm?

Where else but to a father, who knows that every son is a miracle, like daily light.

More than anything else Fatherhood is guidance and wisdom—the wisdom of setting a good example in thought, in word, in deed. And one principle that surely deserves to be exemplified is the practice of Moderation in all things, including the use of whisky. It is this thought which The House of Seagram wishes to leave with you on this Father's Day, 1959. May it enrich your life with happiness, and your son's thereafter.

Mr. Manning's Sweep

ALBERTA'S ELECTORS HAVE shown in resounding fashion their confidence in the Manning administration. Mr. Manning has given them generally sound and rather conservative government.

The province has prospered under his leadership, though not entirely because of it, and the voters of Alberta quite obviously saw no greater promise in the platforms of the other parties.

No one but a Social Creditor can draw comfort from the results of the election yesterday. Mr. Diefenbaker's magic touch, demonstrated in the last federal election in Alberta, has failed to rub off sufficiently on the provincial Conservatives to have any beneficial influence on members elected. Although the party increased its popular vote substantially, it lost two seats and has now only one representative.

The people there are evidently bitterly disappointed in the Federal Government, particularly in its mismanagement of affairs concerning the petroleum industry.

The Liberals have suffered an even worse reverse. Their popular vote has fallen from 31 to 14 per cent and their representation has been reduced from 15 to one. This is a sharp rebuke to their new leader, Mr. Grant MacEwan, who failed in his own bid for election.

The CCF has been virtually wiped out, losing its two representatives in the legislature and falling in the popular vote from eight to five per cent.

Under our system, of course, elections seldom, if ever, reflect the popular vote. Mr. Manning deserves congratulations for winning 61 seats, but it will be noted that his candidates while sweeping the election received only 56 per cent of the ballots cast. At the same time, the poll established a record, 406,000 of a possible 600,000 voting.

There is one cause for grave concern in the result. The opposition has been reduced almost to the point of elimination. That is not a healthy condition for democratic government.

Think Now About Pollution

MR. LLOYD SMITH, A SANITARY inspector for the city, has expressed fears that inadequate sewer facilities may again lead to serious pollution of Portage Inlet and the Gorge.

The danger, he points out, is not immediate. "But," he adds, "if the building continues in the area (without an adequate sewer system) the time will come when the Gorge will be closed again."

Other responsible health officers and sanitary officials see little likelihood of beaches being closed for this reason in the near future. Regular pollution tests show the waters, except in two regional bays long condemned, to be well below the danger point.

Mr. Smith's warning is nevertheless valuable. He is not provoking a hysterical reaction on the public's part. He is simply informing this community that a continuation of some existing practices will lead to danger.

Certainly the pollution problem will not grow any simpler unless something is done to avoid a heavier flow of effluent into waters used for swimming. Indeed, as the population increases, the community must give more thought to means of avoiding contamination. That, if the experience of other sections of the continent means anything, suggests provision for treatment equipment before sewage is run into the sea, or narrow arms of it.

The time to give that matter thought, and to draft plans for eventual installations, is now before pollution becomes a serious health menace.

If Mr. Smith's warning stimulates such thought and planning it will have served a very useful purpose.

The Rich and the Poor

THE SMALL PRINT OF HANSARD the other day contained information of broad interest to British Columbians.

Mr. Erhart Regier, CCF member for Burnaby-Coquitlam, asked Mr. Fleming what payments would be made to British Columbia under the Federal-Provincial Tax-Sharing Arrangements Act this year and how they compared with those of recent years.

Mr. Fleming replied that for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1958, payments under the act amounted to $58.9 millions, for the year ending March 31, 1959, $64.1 millions and for the current year the estimate was $68.4 millions.

This sum, coupled with other federal payments, notably the amount due under the health insurance act, said Mr. Regier, would exceed one-third of the income of the government of British Columbia.

Mr. Regier did not mention the fact, but he could have noted also that Mr. Bennett is asking for more while he is busy preparing to burn direct debt bonds and boasting of prosperity at the very time that the Federal Government is plunging heavily into deficit. Mr. Bennett's argument seems clear:

"We're well off. You're broke. Therefore you should pay us more."

Trade You, Winnipeg

THE TOWN PLANNING COMMISSION of Winnipeg has proposed a plan for a plaza and other park spaces in the downtown area. Says the Winnipeg Tribune: "What is proposed is so exciting that there must be a tendency to think that the price tag would be high and perhaps far beyond the city's means. By great good luck this need not be so."

The newspaper adds "Winnipeg seems to have been presented with the opportunity to create something unequalled in any other Canadian city. This opportunity should be seized."

It makes one wonder what will become of the View-Street Mall project that was approved by a majority vote last December. It has since been stalled by the court manoeuvring of Mr. Donald Smith, ex-alderman and current Social Credit member of the legislature for the city.

Mr. Smith was vacationing in Hawaii when his fellow citizens voted to get on with the stimulating project. But he lost no time on his return to Victoria in throwing a wrench into the machinery, for reasons never satisfactorily explained, and halting one of the most progressive and forward-looking plans the city has had in many years.

Well, here's wishing luck to Winnipeg. They'll have a plaza and we'll have Mr. Smith.

Mr. Bennett and Letters

MR. BENNETT IS IN ERROR when he charges "the newspapers are not printing the letters of greatest support" for his policies when they come to the desk of an editor.

Letters endorsing the premier and Social Credit (or any other political party, are judged by this newspaper on their merits. They are subject to the same rules that apply to other writers.

The people who write them must be identified by name and address, although this newspaper permits pen names when desired by correspondents for publication.

The letters must conform to the usual rules regarding libel, must be readable as well as legibly written, and, except in unusual cases, must be of moderate length.

No newspaper can publish all the communications it receives. Space limitations alone impose their own curbs.

But if Mr. Bennett, in his statement, implies that his supporters are suffering from deliberate discrimination, the premier is wrong. A survey of The Times shows an honest balance between "pros" and "cons."

We think he also knows that the letters-to-the-editor columns constitute a public forum, though not an avenue of free publicity for material which should properly appear as advertising.

BIGGER AND BETTER GENOCIDE

No Sight, No Smell and No Human Feelings

By B. A. TOBIN

THE news item was just a small one, nothing at all really. It was dated from Washington and it merely told what had happened at some minor committee meeting in the busy U.S. capital.

Tobin

It mentioned that members of the committee "were told yesterday of a chemical warfare gas that could either make them dance a merry jig or kill them in thirty seconds." An expert explained that human targets of the latest gases wouldn't be able to "see, smell or feel them." And he added that gases today can be tailored to "merely harass, make sick or kill" their victims.

That was all the item said—a few lines of type amongst thousands of words of the day's doings. People who read it would probably murmur, "Hmmm. What will they think of next?" and pass on to more important matters.

Yet the very fact that we can take information like that in our stride without more than a flicker of interest is in itself a most revealing fact about our times.

For those who looked into the meaning of the item, there was something even more revealing. Assessing the simple facts of the news: What other age could have made that claim?

We look back with complacency to earlier days, when fire and sword, war clubs, bows and arrows, blunderbusses and cannon were the accepted ways of annihilating an enemy. We can even look back on the block-buster raid—say 1,000 planes a night—as rather primitive stuff.

At the moment we are in a state of transition. But everyone is familiar enough with the stage we are entering to treat it as though it were really here—the intercontinental missile carrying a nuclear warhead is to all intents and purposes a part of our times.

Unfortunately, there is a small catch to the use of nuclear weapons. They are something of a broadsword that catches one of your own men on the backswing and removes his head. For you can even lose your own head with nuclear weapons—at least you can lose the red corpuscles out of your blood. The end result is much the same.

Delayed Action

And you can deal an unintended blow to your children and their children and their children, so that your great-great-grandchildren, if any, may have two heads or one lung or a disposition to cancer of the liver at the age of eleven.

It becomes pretty clear that the winner of a nuclear war cannot really be determined right away. It may take several hundred years to find out who really won—or at least which descendants turned out to be descendants of the victors.

This is really too slow for modern folk. We like to know who won the general election within minutes of the closing of the polls. And we like to know who won the war as soon as the last shot has been fired.

The boast that "my posterity can lick any posterity in the house" would take too long to prove. This feature of nuclear war rules it out as a favorite method of settlement. Something more immediate should be found.

It has been found. The Washington news item restores our faith in man's inventive genius and his ability to get things done on a satisfactory basis.

Instant Victory

With development of the new gas warfare we can time our victory with great precision. We'll know right away who won. As in the barbershop with six chairs, there'll be no waiting.

But best of all, there will be complete control over the exact amount of punishment to be inflicted on the enemy. He can be merely harassed, made sick, or killed.

It is not hard to imagine the scene in Country A as the next war, undeclared, gets under way.

"Only half the working force on duty, sir," foremen in factories will report some morning. "The rest claim they feel harassed."

The staff are phoning in harassment reports," civil service heads will tell their ministers. "Looks like we'll have only a fraction on the job."

Long before noon, the newspapers will be on the streets with extras screaming: "Entire Population Harassed—Government Fears Worst."

And within a matter of hours it will be known for sure that a secret attack has been made by some enemy. The noxious gas has spread across Country A and production, administration and education have come almost to a standstill.

At this point the enemy country will begin to issue ultimatums, and if it is not already too late to retaliate, the war will be on.

Or stepping it up, the gas attack may render everyone in Country A sick. Imagine a population of millions all sick in bed some morning; much too ill to care whether some invader arrives to take over the state or not.

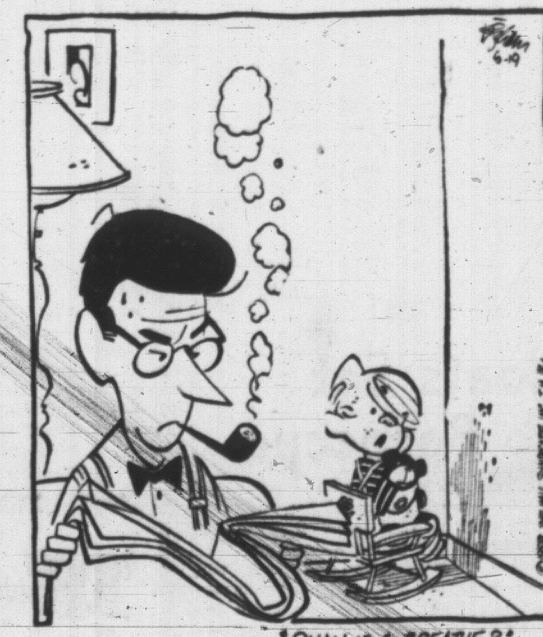

Imagine your own feelings the worst time you've ever been seasick, and multiply that by ten, to get an inkling of the effects of the gas.

Of course, if all else fails, the third type of gas may be used. As each person in Country A steps to the door to sniff the morning air he or she will fall dead. Neatly, effectively and definitely dead.

In a matter of a day or so the gas will blow away, leaving the place clear for the invaders to take over. There'll be no nasty fallout to worry about, no big holes in the ground filled with radioactive lava, no broken windows, no inconvenient strontium 90 in the milk—probably no milk. Just clear away the previous owners and take over.

As the news item said, you can make 'em dance a merry jig or kill 'em in thirty seconds. And what better choice could anyone want?

'Canadian Author at the Summit of His Narrative Powers'

THE WATCH THAT ENDS THE NIGHT, by Hugh MacLennan. Toronto: The Macmillan Co., 373 pps. $3.95.

A FACT not noted in the news columns, but nonetheless of significance to the arts in Canada, is that this new novel by Hugh MacLennan has, for the past 14 weeks, been on the best-seller lists of the authoritative New York Times Book Review section.

Barring perhaps Thomas Costain, who has long since left this country, no other Canadian author has had such widespread recognition or critical acclaim. The distinguished American theologian, Reinhold Niebuhr, describes MacLennan's book simply as "a masterpiece." Orville Prescott of the N.Y. Times says that this is "one of two books" he has read this year which he would unreservedly recommend.

In any country, in any language, "The Watch That Ends the Night" would be a universal: the meaning of life and of love.

There are just three central characters. There are George and Catherine Stewart; he a political commentator, she an artist, who have come to live with the dreadful fact of a crippling illness; yet have found rich happiness.

MACLENNAN

And then there is Jerome Martelli—a tough, brilliant surgeon who was Catherine's first husband, went off to the Spanish wars and then disappeared into the torture camps of Europe.

With Jerome officially pronounced dead, Catherine and George are married and enter on a near-idyllic life in Montreal. Then one day, 11 years later, Jerome returns from the dead and demands to see his wife and daughter.

By an ingenious series of flashbacks, Hugh MacLennan tells the story of these three lives and the events which lead up to their fateful contretemps. In so doing, he manages to tell as well the story of Canada itself: of the rigors of life in the New Brunswick forests (where he introduces one of the most hair-raising "chase" scenes in contemporary literature); of the grinding poverty of the depression years, when unemployed slept in lavatories and railway stations, and the intellectuals of the day turned to communism as the cure-all of our social ills; of the war, and subsequent burgeoning prosperity.

Along the way, author MacLennan has illuminated his story with some arresting vignettes of Canadian life. No man has written so well about that city of contrasts, Montreal, lying at dusk "like a fleet at anchor," with its social levels as rigidly stratified as Maisonneuve and the stone mansions of Mount Royal's slopes. No man has written more subtly about the ethos of the Canadian private school, with its derelict masters and down-at-the-heels gentility.

But it is in the interplay of human forces that the writer achieves his most moving statements. What is the reason and the purpose of life? Why is Catherine, foredoomed by the nature of her illness, confronted with this chilling echo from her past? What happened to the bright idealism Jerome took to the Spanish battlefields, when he discovered that the men willing to shed blood for a cause were sold out by the politicians?

MacLennan's answer is that life, itself, is a gift: "to be able to love the mystery surrounding us is the final and only sanction of human existence." Accepting this faith, George Stewart finds serenity.

"The Watch That Ends the Night" discloses an author at the summit of his narrative powers. Sensitively written, profound and powerful, it reaffirms and strengthens the talents Mr. MacLennan showed earlier in "Two Solitudes" and "The Precipice." By any standards, it must be judged a milestone in Canadian literature.—J. S. K.

The Sweet Taste of Summer

A CROSS from our place a screen of spirea shields a narrow bench at the foot of Gonzales Hill from the roadway. Since the Capital Improvement District Commission improved Crescent Road, digging away a few feet of the hill, the spirea screen has been considerably thinned.

In a way it's a pity. That fringe of brush at the edge of the narrow shelf was about the best place for an ambush in our district. Dozens of young Indians, like me, have descended on dozens of cowboys and cavalry troops from that thicket in years past.

Still it probably doesn't matter too much. With the advent of plastic burp guns, tommyguns and bazookas, it's getting harder and harder to convert young boys into war party Indians. They've sort of become enfranchised.

But the attraction of this small hideaway was not limited to its adaptability to ambush. Here a small break in the bank above the road provided an entrance in springtime to a series of hillside oak thickets where the first wild lilies bloomed. Above and around the thicket, moist moss of the season formed a bed for the delicate flowers we used to call bluebells.

And in summer the best patch of wild blackberries in the entire neighborhood grew there.

As kids, we'd struggle up from the beach to the old road, wander along it to the break in the bank, climb up to the grassy bench behind the spirea and pick the fruit which grew on vines tangled around an old hemlock stump.

This was a pastime for hot afternoons. Cicadas provided a monotone background for the symphony of summer. Big grasshoppers, called locusts by some people, craked away in brief flight on black and yellow wings. Bees droned their exploring way over the blackberries, and from the beach came the ululations of children at noisy play and the barking of dogs.

Barefoot and bare-legged we'd ease our way carefully to the blackberry patch, gathering scratches and small thorns as we went. And there, as we picked and ate, we'd talk about going home for a pail and gathering enough berries for a pie. The project never passed talk.

You picked into a pail when you had to in the raspberry canes at home, or when some adult made an outing an occasion for blackberrying. You didn't mind an expedition far afield to gather the fruit, provided it included provision for a picnic.

But picking by the pail in wild land near home just didn't seem right. It was a good idea, sure. Only you never got around to it. And anyhow, by the time you'd debated the question while you picked and ate, there weren't enough ripe berries left to make a pie.

It must be 40 years since I first convinced myself that I should gather a pail full of berries for home near home. Forty years later I've actually done it. Not a pail full, it's true, but enough for a pie.

A mere stone's throw from the old patch, which has aged and withered away, this year's weather and an ingenious nature has produced a finer crop of wild blackberries than existed even in the patch of my boyhood.

The vines have grown over rocks in a vacant lot and the rocks, it seems, have husbanded the warmth of the sun to encourage growth and bring on a prodigious crop. The berries, all large, gleam bright green where they are new-formed, blaze in ruby where they are maturing, and reach a shiny jet when they await plucking. In them is the concentrated essence of summer.

I have picked them and an artist with pastry and berries has converted them into a pie. No finer pie exists on earth.

There is, I think, a moral to the story. If a young person decides early in life what he intends to do, he has taken the first step toward success and the rewards which success brings.

I offer myself as an example. As a child I decided to pick blackberries for a pie. I have made good that decision, and the pie has been a reward unequalled in my experience. Of course, a bit of time elapses between decision and realization—about 40 years in the present case.

By STANLEY BURKE

UN CORRESPONDENCE

Canada Leads Way

NEW YORK — Canada can claim three really important political contributions to the modern world—the basic idea for the Commonwealth, the basic idea for NATO, and the key role in the organization of the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East. It would be hard to imagine three more important contributions. The Commonwealth—a master plan for international understanding and co-operation; NATO—the greatest alliance in history; and UNEF, the first real international police force.

Burke

Now Canada's Lester Pearson is pushing hard for another sweeping concept, a genuine Atlantic community. In the current issue of International Affairs, Mr. Pearson warns that the very existence of the Atlantic nations may be endangered if they do not group themselves into a co-operative economic and political group. In New York he repeated the same theme speaking before the famous New School for Social Research.

At the United Nations there is considerable interest in such an Atlantic grouping because more and more it's being realized that in earlier UN thinking there was over-emphasis on the global concept on international relations.

Now it's realized that there is also a need for regional grouping. The Europeans are making steady progress with their history-making unification scheme while similar plans are evolving in Latin America, the Far East, the Middle East and Africa.

During last year's emergency Middle East session of the General Assembly, Canada used the word "Commonwealth" in connection with the proposed co-operative grouping of Arab nations. It was a happy phrase which struck a responsive chord among the Arab delegates and, as a matter of fact, "Commonwealth" is rather frequently used to describe all these schemes.

Canadians can claim major credit for the basic idea of the Commonwealth because Canada, more than any other member of the old empire, objected to the idea of a common foreign policy centred on Whitehall. It's now clear, of course, that the Commonwealth could never have evolved into the present multi-racial brotherhood if it had been based on the centralized principle.

As far as NATO is concerned, Canada's claim is clear. The first suggestion was thrown out by External Affairs Minister Louis St. Laurent before the UN General Assembly and later, in greater detail, before the House of Commons. Mr. St. Laurent may, incidentally, have been reflecting certain views of his under secretary, a certain civil servant by the name of Pearson.

As far as UNEF is concerned, the Canadian contribution was recognized by the Nobel Prize Committee who gave the award to the same person, Pearson.

Canada has of course made other notable contributions. Mr. Diefenbaker has long supported the attractive but difficult idea of a food bank and has made a start through the Colombo Plan, the most successful of the government-to-government aid schemes. In atomic energy, Canada could have built a bomb if she craved "grandeur" of the French sort but, instead, chose to make a peaceful contribution and enhanced her reputation by this decision.

Unhappy Britons Get Go-Home Aid

LONDON (CP)—A London travel agency has announced plans to help dissatisfied British immigrants in Canada returning to the United Kingdom.

Under the plan announced by Simtours Limited, the immigrant can fly back home, providing a friend or relative in Britain deposits £10 with the agency and guarantees that the balance will be repaid within two years. Normally it isn't possible to buy one-way trans-Atlantic tickets on the installment plan.

Simon Goodman, managing director of the agency, told a press conference the plan is being introduced because "there are many thousands of U.K. immigrants in Canada who are unemployed or in some other way dissatisfied."

He expects the peak period to be between September and December when he plans to handle about 1,000 passengers a month. Providing there is enough business, he said the firm will consider sea crossings.

Simtours will work with the Goodwill Committee of Canada which assists immigrants arriving in Canada. Goodman said this committee has received "many hundreds" of enquiries for assistance.

Ottawa to Match Fire Donations

LANARK, Ont. (UPI)—The Ontario government will match federal contributions to this fire-ravaged village, Ontario planning minister William M. Nickle said Wednesday night on his arrival here.

He also said the fire relief fund started by the townspeople had reached $8,500. The Red Cross contributed $5,000.

The News Chronicle ink shortage follows an unofficial boycott of the paper by one printing union that objected to an editorial the paper ran on the strike situation, the paper's spokesman said.

Grizzly Mauls Man On Lonely Park Trail

EAST GLACIER, Mont. (AP)—A grizzly bear severely mauled a Glacier National Park employee on a lonely mountain trail Thursday night.

Joseph L. Williams Jr., 20, of Harvey Cedars, N.J., was reported in serious condition in hospital at Cardston, Alta. The park summer employee was taken there after park rangers brought him down the mountain on a stretcher.

Williams was conscious as the stretcher bearers made the slow 1,000-foot descent from Alton Mountain. He suffered severe cuts on the right side of his head and right leg.

TOSSED STONES

A park spokesman said Williams was hiking with Robert M. Winter, 17, of Grosse Pointe City, Mich. He said Winter attempted to distract the bear by throwing rocks and walking and running in the vicinity but that the bear would not leave Williams.

Winter then ran screaming down the mountain, calling for help. He suffered exhaustion and severe leg cramps and was treated at the Cardston Hospital, then released. However, he was unable to give a coherent story of the attack.

Bill Carlson, Glacier Park spokesman, said the grizzly was shot by area ranger Don Dayton.

Something New Under Sun

There is something new under the sun, contrary to the beliefs of the cynics.

It has generally been understood that potted house plants should not be disturbed during their growing season, certainly not to the extent of taking them from the pots and actually planting them into the open garden.

Yet I have known this to be done with excellent results in the case of the Chinese jade-tree (Crataegus argentea) and also the Christmas cactus (Zygocactus truncatus).

In both cases the experiment was initiated from necessity—the houseplanters going on extended trips and not wishing to burden friends with the care of house plants in addition to garden watering.

NO CLUE

The two plants came to me for repotting in the fall at the interval of a year. Placed in a deep carton, and packed around with newspaper, I had no clue that they were not in pots until the owners had left.

Imagine my surprise on finding that in each case the ball of roots had obviously been freshly dug from the open border.

With some misgivings at treating large plants in such a fashion, I carefully potted them, using the regular peat moss, coarse sand and compost mixture.

Interested to know the outcome of spending the summer for repotting in the garden, I kept in touch with the owners and learned that the Chinese jade flowered beautifully the following winter, as did the Christmas cactus.

Base Metals Slip To Low for 1959

Base metals slipped to a low point at Toronto today as trading turned mixed in light mid-afternoon trading.

The 2 p.m. volume was 2,170,000 shares, compared with Thursday's 1,924,000 at the same hour.

Radiore featured speculative, rising 50 cents to $1.40 amid rumors of a discovery on its property in the Mattagami district of Quebec.

Refining oils and pipelines were easier among industrials, but most groups were mixed. Canadian Salt and Canadian Tire each added 3 points while

AT MONTREAL prices were irregular with mostly fractional changes in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Utilities were fairly active, and in papers Eddy Paper A dropped 7 at 63 1/2.

Shop and Save in the food group rose 1 1/2 at 25.

In the metals International Nickel was up 1/2 at 93 1/2.

In the oils B-A was down 1/2 at 35 1/2, and Texaco Canada up 1/2 at 74.

Industrial volume was 80,900 shares, mines and oils 194,990.

AT NEW YORK spurs by steel and aircraft were high lights in a dull stock market session today.

Volume for the day was estimated at 2,400,000 shares.

The proposed merger of Texaco with Superior Oil of California which would involve an exchange of 24 shares of Texaco for one share of Superior, caused both stocks to jump. Superior Oil went up about 65 points. Meanwhile, Texaco was ahead around 3.

As aircraft moved ahead, Boeing rose about 2 and United Aircraft well over a point.

AT LONDON most sections were firm today.

South African gold shares were a weak exception following the riots in Durban. Losses were widespread and mainly the result of nervous marking down with no marked pressure to sell.

Gilt-edged securities remained at improved levels. In the foreign section Greeks continued to attract buyers.

Dollar stocks generally were irregular.

AT VANCOUVER trading was quiet with slight price change during the forenoon.

Beaver Lodge moved 3,900 at $1.68. Bethlehem Copper traded 2,600 at $1.68. Covinch Copper sold 1,800 at 74. Silver Standard moved 2,000 at 36. Giant Mascot traded 1,400 at 24.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two giants of the petroleum industry took steps toward unification Thursday night.

Plans call for Texaco Incorporated to buy the Superior Oil Company of California for the equivalent of $765,000,000.

The combined company would control an estimated eight per cent of the total oil production in the United States. About a year ago, Texaco passed the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as the largest domestic producer of crude oil.

Offer by Ford Poses Problem For Canadians

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

Ford Motor Co. of Canada shareholders in Victoria, as well as those in other parts of Canada, face a sticky problem: Should they sell for a fast dollar or should they hold on in the expectation the stock will increase in value?

The pros and cons of the situation arose June 1. Ford Motor Co. (U.S.) invited Canadian shareholders of Ford of Canada to sell at $188 per share. Since Ford of Canada shares were trading at about $144 at the time of the offer, some Canadian shareholders hastily accepted.

Others were less sure that Ford of Canada's U.S. "sugar daddy" was doing them a favor.

DOUBTS CAST

One of the skeptics is Ian F. McRae, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and an executive of an extremely successful Canadian subsidiary of a U.S. manufacturing enterprise. Mr. McRae posed this question at the annual meeting of CMA last week at St. Andrews, N.B.: "How much faith do Canadians have in Canadian efforts to develop the national economy?"

He was even more blunt. Canadians, he said, should keep their shares in Ford of Canada, both from the investment point of view and as a matter of national interest.

Makes sense. It must be obvious that if Canadians as investors prefer a "fast dollar" which Ford (U.S.) is offering, to a continued stake in their own country's future potential, then manufacturers are wasting their time thinking and talking about national growth. Equally, they had better content themselves with making a dollar as fast as possible and let people in the U.S., or any place else, look after Canada's future.

U.S. companies must be watching the Ford move to see if Canadians are really serious in demanding a share for themselves in the future of the country or if all Canadians want is the speedy dollar.

IN THE BALANCE

If shareholders grasp the Ford (U.S.) offer, the efforts of executives who have been trying to convince their parent U.S. companies that it would be wise to allow Canadians to participate as shareholders in the future growth of the Canadian operation will go "down the chute."

From the investment point of view, look at the offer through the eyes of a man—not a young man—who has held Ford of Canada shares for a long time.

Last fall when Ford of Canada shares were down on the market, he bought more of them at $75 per share. When Ford (U.S.) offered to take some or all of his shares he took a good look at his position and said "no thanks."

"I still believe," he said, "this country and the better industries in it have a future."

"If Ford (U.S.) did not also hold that view, no offer would have been made for the shares."

Rotarians and Chamber of Commerce members have heard some flowery-tongued after-dinner speakers over the years. But few can compare with Frank Branch Riley, colorful historian and traveler, who spoke to them Thursday.

A Harvard lawyer with accent to match, Mr. Riley delivered a courtroom-style resume of how "this great America" came to be discovered. None of his remarks, however, carried as memorable a phrase as his opening salvo.

Four Firms Back Peace River Bid For Oil Pipeline

Application of Peace River Pipelines Co. (B.C.) Ltd. for a permit to pipe crude oil into Alberta from the oil fields of northeastern B.C. was supported Wednesday by four Calgary-based oil companies.

The application, one of four being heard by a department of commerce transport board at the Legislative Buildings, will be presented Monday.

The companies favoring the Peace River proposal are Mobile Oil of Canada, Triad Oil, Sinclair Canada Oil Company and Sun Oil Company. Each of these firms has producing wells in Milligan Creek, Beaton River, Boundary Lake or Doig River fields of B.C.

'GREATEST INFLATION OF INTEREST'

Premier Bennett charged the federal government Thursday with "causing the greatest inflation of interest rates in the history of Canada."

He said the cost of short-term money had risen from one-half of 1 per cent to 5.68 per cent.

"Yet the Conservatives promised to reduce interest rates and do away with tight money."

The federal government has brought tighter money and higher interest rates than even that terrible Liberal government that the people of Canada kicked out two years ago," the premier said.

Industry Warned To Watch Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner—warned Wednesday that B.C. must pay attention to the costs of its products if the province is to expect a fair share of world markets.

He told the Vancouver Real Estate Board that the post-war recovery of European industry and creation of the European Common Market are "something that we ignore at our peril."

Mr. Bonner said the province must also take "a long hard look" at its financial requirements at municipal, school board and provincial levels.

This was because of a "reappearance of what I can only call very hard money indeed."

"It is an awfully good time to keep our commercial heads," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general told reporters later that "whenever labor demands exceed industrial productivity the only result can be damage to the provincial economy. You don't create income out of nothing."

He told the meeting that 70 per cent of the provincial income depended upon B.C. trading successfully with the world.

MYSTERY MAN AT JUBILEE HOSPITAL

ROYAL GUARD GIVES 100%

Every member of the Royal Canadian Navy's Royal Guard gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross Wednesday.

Officials said that while large turnouts were common from the services and government workers, the 100 per cent contribution was "extremely rare."

The guard will be paraded during the Queen's two-day visit to Victoria July 16 and 17.

Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities today were still trying to find out the name of a young man brought into the emergency ward early Thursday after he was found lying unconscious in the 900 block Yates.

There is a possibility he may be suffering from amnesia or is just "not talking."

No identification of any kind was found on his clothing.

Police said he was driven to hospital by three men, Mark Scott, 30 Cambridge; Frank Carlow, 2607 Selwyn and John Hudson. There was no sign of bodily injury on the mystery man.

When admitted to hospital he was wearing grey slacks, black shoes, white shirt, tartan tie and dark horn-rimmed glasses. He has brown hair and is five feet nine inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds and is believed to be in his 20s.

Anyone knowing his identity is asked to contact the hospital.

BECOMES PRESIDENT

De Valera Wins Irish Election

DUBLIN (CP)—Eamon de Valera, the 77-year-old Irish patriot who had led his country for 40 years, was elected president of the Republic of Ireland Thursday night by a margin of more than 120,000 votes.

The New York-born Dev, now nearly blind, stepped down from the prime ministership to the presidency which is largely a ceremonial post.

The complete count from Wednesday's general election gave de Valera 538,038 votes to 417,482 for Gen. Sean MacBóin, de Valera's only opponent.

The parallel race on whether to abolish Ireland's election system of proportional representation stood at 84,450 votes favoring abolishment to 79,221 votes favoring retention when nine of the 40 voting areas had reported.

About 60 per cent of the republic's 1,700,000 electors cast votes.

De Valera resigned as prime minister on Wednesday night and his action meant his ment. There will be no general cabinet resigned with him.

'CLOSE CALL' SAYS CO-PILOT

MiGs Buzz Iranian Plane

PUGWASH TALK THIS SUMMER

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton announced Thursday that a fourth Pugwash "thinkers" conference will be held at Pugwash, N.S., this summer.

Mr. Eaton said the world is in extreme peril from chemical and bacteriological war, and that this danger will be the theme of the meetings.

The conference will be held the final week in August and more than 20 scientists from both sides of the Iron and Bamboo Curtains have been invited.

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Two Soviet MIG fighters buzzed an Iranian airliner five times Wednesday when it strayed over the Baltic, an airline spokesman reported here Thursday night. The plane's co-pilot said it was a "close call."

The plane later was intercepted by two British Hunter jets over an air defence zone between East and West Germany.

The airliner was on a ferry flight from Copenhagen to Teheran via Frankfurt without passengers.

Korea Held Suspect In Far East Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deputy Secretary Neil McElroy says it is likely that the MIG fighters which attacked a U.S. Navy patrol plane last Monday were North Korean Communist aircraft. Asked at a press conference Thursday if the nationality of the attacking planes had been established, he replied negatively. Then he added that the direction from which the two attacking jets came suggested that they were "more than likely North Korean."

SUCCESSOR TO QUEEN ELIZABETH

Nuclear Cunarder Studied

LONDON (CP)—One of the two liners that will succeed the Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mary may be powered by nuclear engines, the Cunard Steamship Company's recent annual meeting was told.

Col. Denis H. Bates, Cunard chairman, said the Queen Mary's successor will be slightly smaller and faster but will not use nuclear power.

The company was still considering nuclear engines for the eventual replacement of the Queen Elizabeth.

Bates said neither the company nor the government had yet made a financial commitment on the replacement of the luxury liners.

A company spokesman said plans for the Queen Mary's successor would remain on the drawing boards for a year to 18 months before construction begins. Another four years will be required to complete the ship, so that the Queen Mary will remain on the North Atlantic run until at least 1964. No names for the new ships have been chosen yet.

Here's why Rambler is a roomier car

Single Unit construction is the key to Rambler's remarkable spaciousness.

Ordinary cars have separate bodies and frames, bolted together. The body shell needs extra bracing with heavy non-working pounds of metal. Single Unit construction is exclusively different. The Rambler body and frame are both part of one solid, all-welded unit. 9,000 welds make Rambler a much stronger car.

Since body and frame work together, Rambler can be designed to give extra space inside, without increasing size outside. The '59 Rambler seats six six-footers—in perfect comfort.

See your Rambler dealer today. Ask about Rambler's extra economy and high resale value. Discover the strength and durability that make Rambler the best, smoothest riding car you can drive.

EARL LONG... a roundhouse right.

'PERSECUTED' LONG BACK IN MENTAL HOSPITAL

Cursing Governor Fights, Howls

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Hoarsely screaming curses, Governor Earl Long of Louisiana battled all the way Thursday night as he was forced into a mental hospital for the second time in three weeks.

"Damn it, damn it, damn it," the rumpled and sweating governor bellowed to sheriff's deputies who held him in tow. "Hell, I'm not going to get in there," he yelled when they tugged him into a car to take him to Southeast Louisiana State Hospital.

The 63-year-old governor swung a roundhouse right at a deputy. He missed.

"You all look, you all look," he shouted. Dr. Chester Williams, coroner of East Baton Rouge Parish (county), said Long is suffering from delusions of persecution—paranoid schizophrenia. But Long remained unconvinced that he needed hospital treatment.

"I don't feel I need to be hospitalized," Long told physicians at the state institution. Dr. Charles Belcher, acting superintendent, indicated that Long must remain in his hospital at least 30 days.

This latest chapter in Long's story pitched Louisiana politics into additional jitters with the question of who is to take over the duties of governor.

Lieutenant Governor Lether Frazier—it is presumed—will step into the breach, as he did when members of the Long family flew a drugged and un-psychiatric clinic in Galveston, willing governor May 30 to a Texas, but nothing is certain.

EXPERT: Ordinary gasolines build up carburetor deposits which clog this valve and waste gasoline. Every cup of gasoline you save means increased mileage.

MR. B.C. What happens with Chevron Supreme?

EXPERT: Chevron Supreme has a carburetor-cleaning detergent action which continually cleans as it surges through. This way you avoid deposits, get a clean, free-running carburetor, and maintain exactly the right balance of air and gasoline at all times for maximum performance, maximum mileage.

The best way to find out about Chevron Supreme is to make the "Supreme" mileage test yourself. Pick up a copy of Standard's "Gasoline Mileage Record" from any Standard Station or Chevron Dealer when you fill your tank with Chevron Supreme.

Incidentally, if you drive a car that runs on regular grade gasoline, you can drive a bargain by using Chevron "regular".

Ted's Final Tale?

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The arrival of hot weather was expected today to tell the final tale for Ted Williams.

Hampered by a pinched nerve and resultant shoulder pains, Williams has been having the most miserable spring of his career. He is batting only .188, has been shut out in 15 of the 31 games in which he played and was humiliated by being benched the first time in his career for not hitting.

Williams wants to quit while on top and, if hot weather doesn't loosen him up so that he can swing back among the batting leaders, this may well be his last year.

NOT EASY

The thumper, despite a $125,000 salary, hasn't found baseball a bed of roses. His career was interrupted twice by wars and he has suffered continual injuries which include an elbow fracture, broken collar bone, ankle sprains and virus attacks.

He went into this season highly hopeful of winning his seventh American League batting title and his third in a row. Then, at the end of March, he was forced to quit the team and enter a hospital for treatment of the pinched nerve in his neck. He was discharged April 8, wearing a medical collar, and didn't get back into action until May 12.

That day Ted went hitless in five trips to the plate—and it got worse. In his first six games he managed only one hit and was batting a microscopic .045. Six games later, he pulled a leg muscle which caused him to miss two games except for one pinch-hitting appearance.

DEGRADING?

Sunday he was benched for the first time in his long major league career and, of all teams, against the Kansas City Athletics. In the two succeeding games he was used only as a pinch hitter.

It provides a distressing outlook for Williams and, considering that he will be 41 in August, the picture doesn't figure to get much brighter.

Which is where the warm weather, and what it might do for him, figures so prominently.

"The back still is quite stiff," he says. "That's the reason I've been hitting to left field. I just can't seem to swing through the ball. But I still think I'll be all right, particularly when the weather warms up. That should help to take out some of the kinks."

BOTHERS HIM

But wearing that neck harness has left an indelible mark on the last man to hit .400, a mark he achieved with .406 in 1941.

The thumper has gotten into the habit of holding his neck stiff when he walks and the old tigerish liveness is lost in the resultant rigidity of his body.

So what happens if warm weather does help him?

If Williams gets his "eye" and his swing back and manages to finish with a fairly respectable mark, it undoubtedly will convince him that he hasn't lost his ability to flog a baseball. Thus if he manages to climb anywhere up near the leaders, and with that seventh batting championship still in his reach next year, he probably would play again in 1950.

It's a parallel to the case of Joe DiMaggio. The Yankee clipper could have remained at Yankee Stadium several more years, picking up $100,000 annually and playing in as few as half of the Yankee games. But when he couldn't be a day-in-day-out star, he chose to retire.

Williams undoubtedly would, too. Because he often has said that he will quit while he is on top and not hang on to the bitter end. And this well may be just that—with hot weather proving it, one way or another.

CENTURY CLUB

SOLARIUM DERBY

Bruce Colegrave, chairman of the Solarium Derby committee, is selling tickets to the July 19 fish-fest as well as organizing it.

In fact, he's sold enough tickets to qualify for membership in the derby's Century Club for another year.

Bruce has been interested in fishing for a lot of years. Past president of the Navy Anglers' Association, he has been a member of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association since 1937.

But he likes helping children as much as he likes fishing, and for the past few years he has felt that selling tickets to the Solarium Derby is a good way to make both ends meet.

He will be happy to sell you a ticket to the biggest one-day fishing derby on Vancouver Island if you call him at EV-28902.

BRUCE COLEGRAVE

Everybody Gets Into the Act

Enthusiastic youngsters supply proof that everybody loves a winner as they escort Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle to home plate. Shown rounding third base, Mantle led off with home-run blast in 10th inning to give New York a 5-4 victory over Chicago White Sox Thursday. It was the 15th circuit blast of the season for Mantle, who wrapped up Wednesday win with three-run shot.

Solons Squelch Mounties' Threat

By The Associated Press

Turnabout is fair play, it's said, and Sacramento Solons did an abrupt about-face Thursday night to deal with a threat to their Pacific Coast League lead in a forthright manner.

The Solons, whacked twice by last-place Seattle Rainiers in a bargain bill Wednesday night, recovered Thursday night and took Seattle in another double-header, 2-1 in seven innings and 2-1 in 10 innings.

The victories gave the Solons a two-game cushion over second-place Vancouver Mounties, who had to go 11 innings for the second night in a row to beat Salt Lake City Bees. This time it was 10-9.

In other league action, Portland Beavers swatted Phoenix Giants 2-1 and Spokane Indians divided a twin bill with San Diego, the Padres winning the opener 8-1, Spokane the nightcap 4-3.

Roger Bowman and Seattle's Jay Hooper got involved in a dandy pitching duel in the opener, with Bowman winning it on a five-hitter.

EXTRA INNINGS

Nine pitchers toiled in the 32-hit Vancouver-Salt Lake City tussle. Singles by Ray Barker, Jim Dyck and Brooks Robinson in the 11th gave the victory to Erv Palica, who came on in the 11th. R. C. Stevens belted out a three-run homer for the Bees in the fifth.

Sparling Has Biggest Day

Ted Smythe and John Fraser, second-seeded men's doubles pair in the annual Victoria Lawn Tennis Club championships, suffered an upsetting setback Thursday.

They were beaten out in semi-final action at the club's Amphion Street grounds, 6-3, 7-5, by the team of Bill Sparling and Jack Parker.

Sparling added a second star to his crown, beating out Gordon Hartley, 6-0, 6-2, to advance to the finals of the men's singles in Thursday's play.

Tonight's draw follows:

8:30 p.m.—Smythe vs. Alderson; Gordon and Wilkinson vs. Pisk and Parker.
6 p.m.—Mitchell and Miller vs. Neal and Bishop.
6:45—Nethery and Sparling vs. Bray and Fraser; J. Wassen vs. J. Woolson.
7:45—Diana Lawrence vs. Maureen Bray.

NEW MATERIAL TO HELP

Good Grooming, Good Track

Athletes running for records in the annual Times-YMCA Vancouver Island Track and Field championships can be sure of a good surface to run on.

This was made certain today when Sandy Smith, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the Victoria school board, announced that 200 cubic yards of cinders will be laid on the Victoria High School track by Thursday.

The material is expected to settle into a fine running surface by meet time at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 27.

Those connected with the big track event hailed the news.

Meet director Bob Hutchison said that "this is the best news we've had since the Gyros put in the track."

"While it may mean that it could be a little soft for our meet, it is still a wonderful thing."

"We really appreciate the interest that the school board is taking in the track and in those using it."

Smith said that the cinders, which will come from a Cassidy coal mine, will be used to replace surfacing that has blown off the track during the past few years.

"In the last two years," he said, "roughly 200-300 cubic yards of cinders have blown off the track or been carried home in children's clothes. But this load should fix it up again.

"The trouble was that it has been quite a problem these last few years to get a supply of proper surfacing material. If this works out, it should be very satisfactory."

"Actually it is a brown-colored material, slightly heavier than cinders. But it packs very well."

"We expect to grade and roll it on Thursday and it should be in top shape for the track home in children's clothes. But

Jack Offers O'Keefe Fans 12 Reasons

NEW WESTMINSTER — A lot of people around the Intercity Lacrosse League are again wondering where New Westminster O'Keefes would be without Jack Bionda.

They know that O'Keefes, with his services, are first.

Bionda helped his team stay on top Thursday, picking up 12 points as he led New Westminster to a 17-11 win over Nanaimo Labatts.

Bionda scored three goals and assisted nine times as the O'Keefes' win streak reached seven games while Labatts' winless streak also reached seven, including one tie.

Bionda failed by two to tie the assists record set by Pete Meehan, of New Westminster Salmonbellies, in 1941.

DON GOES ON HUNT

Fans were treated to some excitement in the final period after the game had moved along at a sedate pace. Don Ashbee, of Nanaimo, taking offence at a fan's heckling, took off after him in the stands.

The fan apparently escaped but Ashbee found a 10-minute misconduct penalty awaiting him when he returned to the floor. Tempers flared on both sides but no further incidents occurred.

Ken Oddy led the winners with four markers, and Cliff Sepka matched Bionda's hat-trick.

Gary Moore, Ashbee, Jack Howse and Gogie Stewart scored two each for Nanaimo.

Roughies Sign Pair

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders have announced the signing of two holdover Canadians, Tackle Bill Clarke and centre Dave Parsons. Both are Regina products.

Clarke is going into his ninth season with the Western Interprovincial Football Union club, while Parsons will be playing his fourth season.

CHRIS HAD KIND WORDS ABOUT HIS MEAL TICKET

MONCTON (CP)—Chris Shaban, manager of world light-heavyweight contender Yvon Durelle, said Thursday night the Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., slugger "is looking better every day."

"Yvon's in better condition right now than when he met Moore (titleholder Archie Moore) the last time," he said. "He's got more drive and is punching well with both hands. Moore will have two hands instead of one to worry about this time."

Durelle and Moore meet July 15 in Montreal in a rematch for the world light-heavyweight championship. Moore stopped Durelle, Canadian and British Empire light-heavy titleholder, in the 11th round last December in Montreal.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

Our western folklore is a mendacious literature which honors the scoundrels of cowtown and range. I've always believed Wyatt Earp was on the take. If he was square, why did he allow Doc Holliday, the consumptive gambler, to trim the ranch hands in Dodge City? Balladeers are liars who set their falsehoods to music as they honor murderers and thieves. Poets slobber over gunmen of the plains who would have been working for Murder, Inc., if they had lived in that era.

In the gangster movies, the hoodlums are usually the most appealing people in the east. They generally live in splendor, land the most beautiful woman and offer themselves in noble sacrifice for love in the final reel. Anytime now, I expect someone to do a ballad for Frankie Carbo, the underworld's commissioner of boxing. There are still guys in the fighter-racket who think he is being tossed around. They remind those who despise this monstrous thug that managing fighters surreptitiously is only a misdemeanor. It is as if Frank Hogan, the district attorney, should be rebuked for getting the mobster indicted.

Carbo is like a plague of the fight racket. Any one he has associated with becomes infected. No one wins but Frankie in any deal he proposes. All his associates, social or for commercial purposes, are losers.

A guy who had been middleweight champion of the world came to call on me. He spoke with a pug's stammer and he walked with the fighter's dance, as if Chinese music played in his mind for him alone. He told me I had treated Carbo unfairly.

"Frankie took good care of me," said the old champion. "He protected me pretty good. He gives more to fighters than he takes. I got a lot of good fights on account of him."

The old champion needed twenty. This guy made a lot of money. I asked him why, if Carbo had protected him so well, was he broke.

"Frankie had a lot of expenses," said the middle-aged moocher who had supported Carbo in his youth.

There is Johnny Bratton, handled by Yimmie Woolman, one of Carbo's stooges, who is in an insane asylum. In Atlantic City the bug doctors attempt to solve the riddle of Johnny Saxton whose agent was Blinky Palermo, Carbo's partner. It goes back to when Mike Jacobs was promoting fights in the Garden.

Carbo Had Middleweights in Vise

Nat Rogers, a decent man, took the fall because he was the matchmaker for the 20th Century Sporting Club. He dropped out of sight after being fined for doing business with Carbo. Rogers didn't make the policy for the firm he worked for. In those years Carbo had the middleweights locked up. You couldn't put one into a fight without his consent.

Until Jackie Barrett and Teddy Brenner took over, the Garden matchmaker was considered Carbo's servant. Al Weill was angled into the job by Carbo. He managed Rocky Marciano in that post which was a violation of the state law. Carbo put the ring in Weill's nose long ago and led him around as if he were a trained pig. Recently, Weill had his licence as a promoter picked up in California because he was too friendly with the mobster.

Billy Brown succeeded Weill in the most influential office in the racket. Brown, an obscure guy, who hustled around the small clubs, had one qualification. Carbo okayed him. He is now being guarded by police around the clock as a material witness against his former patron.

Jim Norris, the richest man ever connected with any sport in this country, enjoyed being seen in Carbo's company. Until the heat was turned on, they attended fights together. So close was Carbo to Norris, that the millionaire called a race horse Mr Gray, which is the old rifleman's moniker in the underworld. Fear trouble keeps Norris from going before a grand jury.

Yimmie Wallman, a man with a lucrative fur business, often bragged that, no matter what the DA charged, Carbo was welcome in his home. Wallman, who swaggered around the fighter racket as Carbo's friend, is also a material witness. Gabe Genovese, another Carbo henchman, has been convicted of being a clandestine manager. Eddie Coco, a ferocious confederate, is doing a long jolt in Florida for murderously shooting a car washer in the back.

Other managers wait to be indicted. Telephone taps have sent others on the lam. Out-of-town promoters wonder what will happen to them if their connections with Carbo are exposed. The gyms are filled with pugs who are terrified that their tank jobs, schemed by Carbo, will be investigated. Add some in the racket still insist that Carbo put more into the fight racket than he took out. They say he was a guy who helped pugs get work. In time, Carbo may achieve the prestige of Jesse James or Billy the Kid.

Mixed up or clean, Carbo eventually will take care of them all. When the fight racket is abolished, Frankie will have done more than anyone in this country to have it declared a criminal act. You could write a ballad about that.

There's a lot of fish in 509-pound black sea bass that Los Angeles angler John Draggatto hooked off San Clemente, Calif., but it still isn't a record. The whopper is five pounds under record.

FARMERS FALL!

It Had to Happen Sooner or Later

A manager can expect some of his pitchers to suffer through a bad night some of the time, but he shudders at the thought of all members of his mound staff turning sour at the same time.

That's how they finally caught up to the previously unbeaten Farmers of Senior Men's Open Softball League.

Manager Bud Ross' Farmers lost their first game of the year, 14-5, to Gorge Hotel at Central Park Thursday night. The game at Heywood Park also turned into something of a rout as Maycocks battered Tudor House 10-4 with a 17-hit attack on pitchers Martin Holm and Ray Ramsay.

WALKS GALORE
The Central Park game almost looked like a Sunday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park. Almost everybody went for a stroll.

There were 19 walks given up in all by four Farmer pitchers. Don Ward started off by allowing six, Ray Newell took over to issue four more, Archie Sluggert added seven, and then Ross, who went to work in the seventh, passed two more.

In addition, three home runs were chalked up by Gorge Hotel. Don Paulin homered in the fifth inning and was followed, in the seventh, by Ab Wiebe and John Markin.

EAGLES STOPPED

Twin Killings Of Little Help

Eagle fielders tried to make up for their sins. But even a pair of double plays weren't of much help to pitcher Robin Barnes Thursday night at Royal Athletic Park as Eagles dropped a Senior Amateur Baseball League decision to Wakeman-Trimble, 5-3, committing six errors along the way.

In and out of trouble most of the night, Barnes was eventually replaced after filling the bases in the ninth by manager Art Worth, who calmly proceeded to set down the succeeding three batters in order.

It was then winning pitcher George Brice's turn to have trouble as Eagles scored all of their runs in the last inning. A pair of line drives in the first and third innings, started the two double plays.

Brice, in going the route for the win, fanned 14 batters who faced him while walking eight and allowing just five hits.

FISHING REPORT

Twin Lure Up-Island

By IAN SMITH

Quite a few Victoria anglers are getting into the habit of going up to Campbell River about this time of year, and no wonder.

First Test For Reps Sunday

When the Victoria and District Cricket League Reps take the field at Beacon Hill Park in a test match against "the Rest" Sunday, they'll be facing a team that could almost rate the Rep team in their own right.

The match, starting at 2:30 p.m., will serve as a warmup for the Victoria eleven in preparation for their July 1 inter-city match against Vancouver at Brockton Point.

Leading the Reps at the bat, of course, will be wicket-keeper Paul Gaddan of Oak Bay, one of the top bats in the league. Bowling strength will rest in the hands of Five Cs' Jim Richards, Oak Bay's Jack Sparks, Albion's Wally Tate and Don Hughes, and Incogs' Rob Wilson.

Top bats for the "Rest" may well be chosen from among such lights as Ted Parkins of Five Cs, Keith Bickmore of Albion, and Les Bullen, Ned Larsen and Derek Hyde-Lay of Cowichan.

Bowling will be handled by Dave Phillip and John Littlemore of Oak Bay, Joe Tatem of Five Cs and Jim Sherratt of Incogs.

Reps: Bob Mainwaring (Capt.), Jim Richards, Jerry Brecken, Gil Ferreira, Jack Sparks, Paul Gaddan, Peter Clarke, Wally Tate, Don Hughes, and Rob Wilson.

Rest: John Moss (Capt.), Dave Phillip, John Littlemore, Bill Stanley, Ted Parkins, Joe Tatem, Keith Bickmore, Jim Sherratt, Les Bullen, Ned Larsen and Derek Hyde-Lay.

Sedgman, Hoad In Semifinals

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia and countryman Lew Hoad Thursday night clawed their way into the semifinals of the $15,000 professional tennis tournament.

Sedgman baselined Pancho Segura of Ecuador 3-6, 6-3, 7-5. Hoad downed Mervyn Rose, also of Australia, 8-6, 6-4 in a battle of the big hitters.

In the first doubles encounter of the tournament, Pancho Gonzales of the United States and Australian Ken Rosewall downed Australia's Ashley Cooper and Segura, 6-2, 7-5.

Veteran Leading British Warmup

LEEDS, England (AP)—Syd Scott, 45-year-old former British Ryder Cup player, Thursday took a five-stroke lead after 36 holes of the Leeds Pro Golf Tournament—the last big championship before the British Open June 29-July 3.

Scott had 70-67-137. Norman Drew of England was second with 71-71-142. Peter Thomson of Australia qualified for today's two 18-hole final matches with 77-69-146.

TIME OUT! NEW KEATS

"Why is it, Sid, every time we do something together I get to do all the heavy work while you just sit doing nothing?"

AT WIMBLEDON

Olmedo, Truman Favored

LONDON (AP)—Alex Olmedo, the 23-year-old Peruvian who won the Davis Cup for the United States last year, has been top-seeded for the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships June 22-July 4.

The seeding committee made Australian star Neale Fraser No. 2 seed in the men's singles.

The top seedings came out as expected. Olmedo got the favorite spot with his brilliant play on grass in the Davis Cup and by defeating Fraser in the final of the Australian national championships in January.

Other men's seedings: 3. Nicola Pietrangeli, Italy; 4. Bobby Wilson, Britain; 5. Barry Mackay, U.S.; 6. Luis Ayala, Chile; 7. Kurt Nielsen, Denmark; 8. Roy Emerson, Australia.

Christine Trueman, the 18-year-old British girl who already has won the French, Italian and Swiss titles this season, was made No. 1 seed in the women's singles.

That turned out as expected, but a minor surprise was the inclusion of another British player, Angela Mortimer, as second seed.

Most experts thought Mrs. Beverley Baker Fleitz, who was seeded third, would get the second position.

Other women's seeds: 4. Darlene Hard, U.S.; 5. Sandra Reynolds, South Africa; 6. Miss Marie Bueno, Brazil; 7. Sally Moore, U.S.

Players' Development Key to Third League

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and elder-statesman Branch Rickey voiced confidence today that the expanding American economy can produce the players needed to form a projected third major league.

Where the required 200 players would be obtained has long been an obstacle to baseball expansion plans. It was the big question asked by big league players themselves in a survey after Thursday's disclosure that the formation of a new 100-million dollar league will be announced next month.

WILL DEVELOP

"The players will develop if we make the jobs for them," said Frick, who at the same time said other considerations involving baseball law made him "neutral" on the plans for a third league.

"We have enough confidence in the country's economy to believe it can fill 200 new jobs provided we should create them through the expansion of our game," Frick said.

Rickey said in Pittsburgh that "of course," there aren't many Musials, or Mayases or Williamses or Aarons. But if you insist on quality of that type, you'll settle for a half-dozen players.

"There are thousands of good ball players all over the United States. There are more boys playing ball in America now than ever before in history," Rickey, inventor of the game's farm system and the man who broke its unwritten color barrier by hiring Jackie Robinson, even had a proposal for a new world series alignment.

"Hold the series in three cities instead of two and double the revenue," said Ol Branch with a thoughtful puff on his cigar.

League presidents Warren Giles of the National and Joe Cronin of the American said they wanted to learn more details before they commented.

Civic and baseball officials in Buffalo, Minneapolis, Toronto and Arlington, Tex., hailed the announcement.

The major question, pointed out by Frick, appeared to be whether there would be enough time under baseball rules for the new franchises to be approved so they could operate in 1961—the target date announced by William A. Shea, chairman of the New York Mayor's Baseball Committee, Thursday.

Among the other cities mentioned for possible franchises are Montreal, Houston, Toronto, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Buffalo and Dallas-Ft. Worth.

AL'S INJURY WILL PAIN DETROIT FOR 10 DAYS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Detroit slugger Al Kaline was recovering in a hospital today from a broken cheekbone caused by a wild throw in Thursday's game with Baltimore Orioles.

He is expected to be out a week to 10 days. The Tigers will keenly feel the loss of the outfielder, who was batting .351 and had 43 runs batted in. He is only three percentage points back of teammate Harvey Kuenn in the American League batting leadership.

TWO BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES will be celebrated Saturday at the historic Hudson's Bay Co. bastion in Nanaimo—106th for the fort, and 84th for its custodian, Joe Muir, right above. Built by two French-Canadian axemen to protect the little settlement, it has been kept in perfect repair ever since. (Times Photos by George Molecey.)

NOW TWO ON V.I. Presbytery Division Celebrated

Duncan became the most northerly point in the new Victoria Presbytery of the United Church, and Chemainus the most southerly point in the new Nanaimo-Cornox Presbytery, at an historic gathering in Brechin Church, at Nanaimo, Wednesday evening.

This was the last meeting of the old Victoria Presbytery, which had embraced the whole of Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands since September 1, 1925, when the Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists of the area formed the United Church.

Two new chairmen of presbyteries inducted into office were Rev. Robert Moses, Qualicum, of the north, and Rev. A. I. Avery, Victoria, of the south. They were inducted by Dr. F. E. H. James, Victoria, and the address was given by Rev. J. G. Gorwill, Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church of Canada.

GRIFFITHS SPEAKS

Rev. T. G. Griffiths, who has ministered to various Vancouver Island churches for all but two years of the past 34, and who was a Methodist minister on the Island before union, was guest speaker at the banquet held to celebrate the extension of the work of the church in the forming of two presbyteries.

James G. Wannop was received as a candidate for the ministry and certain changes in the existing appointments were announced.

Regret was expressed at the loss of Rev. Douglas Carr, of Centennial Church, Victoria, who has accepted an invitation to go to Calgary. Rev. Thomas Bulman, Vernon, will come to Lake Cowichan, and Daryl Logan will take over the work at Ganges next month.

Nanaimo to Run 'Retarded' School

NANAIMO (CP)—Nanaimo school district will be among the first in the province to take over a school for retarded children and incorporate it into the regular school organization under provisions of new provincial legislation.

The school board decided Thursday to take over the Christopher Robin School for retarded children.

In an address to trustees Dr. C. J. G. MacKenzie, Central Vancouver Island Health Unit director, said only one per cent of 28,000 children examined in B.C. have physical defects, but about four per cent have emotional problems of varying degrees of seriousness.

Born in England, her first home in B.C. was at Chilliwack, and she lived at New Westminster and Vancouver before moving to Youbou in 1950. Six years ago she made her home in Lake Cowichan.

Her husband, William, died in 1916. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. K. Castley, Lake Cowichan; a grandson, a sister, Mrs. Annie Dodge, New Westminster; a brother, Albert Goselline, Vancouver; and brothers and sisters in England.

when the Lake Cowichan Kiwanis Club stages its fourth annual power boat regatta.

The afternoon's activities start at 12.30 with the opening heats in the various races, and continue until 5. At 2.30 drivers and their boats will get a rest for three-quarters of an hour while members of the Victoria Aqua Ski Club entertain with an exhibition of water skiing, jumping, and ballet.

Sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association, the races will be for four classes of outboards (utility and hydro) and two classes of inboards (cracker box and class 136s).

TWO NEW EVENTS

This year for the first time, two events are being included for local racers. The first is the local junior event for drivers of 17 and under with maximum of 18-h.p. motors and any hull, and the second is the local open for any type of hull and any single motor.

Boats from Victoria, Vancouver and Port Alberni will compete in the regatta and one or two entries are expected from Seattle. Some $300 in prize money and several trophies will be at stake.

COWICHAN BAY

$50,000 Marina Opening

COWICHAN BAY — This area's newest, most modern marina opens for business this weekend.

Falt Bros. Marina will cater to the boating and fishing fraternity and offers all the latest in equipment and facilities.

The marina, combining a service station, cafe, and boat handling service, represents a $50,000 investment by George and Albin Falt.

George, a Cowichan Bay resident for the past eight years and Albin, a resident for 13 years, are well known as operators of a log-booming business. Both are veterans of the Royal Canadian Navy and boating and fishing enthusiasts.

100 BOATS
The marina's dock and floats can accommodate up to 100 small craft. A specially designed trailer boat-lift will load and unload nearly every type of boat. The marina soon will stock a full selection of fishing supplies.

Expected to be a popular feature is the rooftop cafe affording patrons a sweeping view of one of Vancouver Island's top fishing grounds.

Fishermen's breakfasts will be served in the cafe, starting at 4 a.m., right up to the end of November.

Vye Elected Crofton Chief

CROFTON — Gordon Vye has been elected chief of Crofton Volunteer Fire Department to replace Tom Hall, who resigned after 11 years in the post because of the pressure of business.

Bob Vye was elected deputy chief, John Hook and John Hansen captains, and Larry Taylor secretary-treasurer.

Cobble Hill Planning School Vote Petition

COBBLE HILL — A petition asking that trustees of the Cowichan District 63 School Board "reconsider" the board's proposed $1,155,292 school building referendum is due to be circulated throughout the southern end of the school district.

A group of ratepayers met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. John Hilton to prepare the petition and arrange for its circulation.

Copies will be called in Tuesday, after which a delegation consisting of Mrs. Hilton, Andrew Biggs and George E. Bonner will present the petition to trustees.

"We are asking reconsideration on the grounds that no meetings were held to ascertain ratepayers' opinions regarding the economy of the district and needs of pupils," Mr. Bonner said today. "We feel the trustees acted too quickly."

FORTY-FIVE NAMES

Already today the petition bears 45 names, Mr. Bonner said.

He said residents in this area resent plans to reduce George E. Bonner Junior-Senior High School to a junior high alone, and to send senior students to Cowichan High School in Duncan.

"We feel we are entitled to a senior division in the school, as we have now, and that this district has been a football long enough," he said.

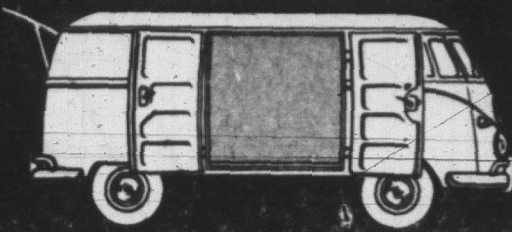

Herbert Bruch, Esquimalt MLA, who attended the meeting, suggested the board might be well advised to wait, since money borrowed now would cost at least 6 per cent.

Trustees have not yet received the go-ahead on the by-law from the minister of education. They had hoped to hold the vote prior to school closing, but this will not be possible since at least 10 days' notice is required before voting.

Cooks Preparing 1,500 Crabs As Tofino Braces for Fly-In

An expected 150 aircraft, from the smallest private planes to four large airliners, will converge on Tofino Sunday for the fourth annual fly-in and crab dinner of the Aero Club of B.C.

Club officials expect 750 people, and 1,500 crabs, will attend the party. About 140 amateur aviators will fly to the Vancouver Island airfield at Tofino aboard two CPA Conquairs and a super DC-6B Empress airliner. A third charter will lift some 28 passengers from Victoria.

Light plane pilots from as far away as Dallas and Los Angeles will be on hand. Instructor-managers from flying clubs at Calgary, Lethbridge and Edmonton will represent the prairie provinces.

Festivities will commence Saturday night with a small dance and party. On Sunday, the crab-eating marathon will begin in earnest.

At Tofino Airport, Ernest Baxter, senior traffic controller, DOT, Vancouver, will set up a temporary control tower to facilitate landings and take-offs.

Good-Lookers Bad Chequers

NANAIMO — Two people described only as a striking blonde woman and a "handsome-looking fellow" are believed responsible for the passing of $400 worth of bogus cheques here this week.

ACHIEVEMENT

Originated by the French, the ruban bleu (blue ribbon) has become the universal symbol of achievement or superiority in every walk of life, in every avenue of business.

Judged by popular demand, Grant's Stand Fast has won the blue ribbon award in the minds of connoisseurs of Scotch whisky the world over.

And now, they also figuratively are pinning the blue ribbon on Grant's tall triangular bottle. So attractive, so easy to pour, the very package is considered an exceedingly popular achievement.

AFTER LONG VOYAGE OF LIFE

He Wants, Needs Tranquil Harbor

By DAVID COWLISHAW

No toilet.

Nowhere to cook.

Nothing on the wooden floor but a well-scrubbed look.

This is a glimpse of "home", a squint at the one-room retreat of a penniless Victoria man—this trinity of austerity he must live with 365 days in the year.

The bathroom is along the hall and three other tenants have a key; the nearest kitchen is two floors down but our pensioner doesn't use it "because there's always a line-up".

This man is old—73. He has been a seaman most of his life. He's voyaged a long way looking for a tranquil harbor to think in. But the walls are made of fibre and there's a loud record-player in the next room.

"Where else can I go? You want me to sleep out of doors? What could you get better for $7 a week?"

Questions. These old people always ask questions. They don't really expect answers, but one reply is in what the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society has done on Styles Road.

They've created a nice little apartment block there, for 26 old people to live and laugh in. It takes money to make a haven—$113,000 for the Styles Road building. You may give next Tuesday. They're having a drive for $50,000. Just $2 from everybody would do it.

It's such a little bit of money—but there is a kitchen to every suite in the Styles Road place. There's a toilet in every apartment, too, and nice new linoleum.

ABLE TO COOK FOR HIMSELF, this 78-year-old pensioner, John Burns, is luckier than many Victoria old people who cannot afford better cooking facilities than a hot-plate. New apartment block built by Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society at Styles and Craigflower provides 26 pensioner-tenants with stove, refrigerator and complete kitchen equipment. Faubus Defeated as Court Orders Schools Reopened

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A three-judge federal court dealt Governor Orval E. Faubus a telling blow Thursday in his fight against racial integration of Little Rock's public high schools.

It ruled that a state law closing the schools is unconstitutional. The Little Rock school board moved quickly with plans for reopening the four schools in the fall.

Faubus, who closed the schools last fall with legislative and popular backing in Little Rock, conceded it looked as though he had lost his authority to keep the schools closed.

The federal court reminded the school board it is under a "continuing mandate" to integrate the schools. Thursday's court action enjoined Faubus, the school board and other public officials from interfering with the "approved plan for the gradual integration."

The Little Rock school board, through its president, Everett Tucker, Jr., announced it would proceed on the premise all schools here would be opened in the fall.

Faubus said he was not surprised by the decision.

BRITISH CRAFTSMANSHIP TOGETHER WITH EXCITING ITALIAN LINES

ALWAYS, the Morris Oxford made sense — sensible outside, sensible inside and sensibly powered.

NOW, Farina, Italy's master-artist and designer, has continentalized the Morris lines — made them strikingly beautiful. Look at their grace and sweeping loveliness... that longer, lower look within the same wheelbase.

AND, beneath the new Oxford's beautiful exterior lies traditional Morris engineering skill, new king-size brakes, as ready to stop as the engine is to go — and new suspension system for road-hugging safety. On top of all else, up to 30 miles a gallon.

THAT'S NOT ALL. There's more headroom, legroom and comfort, too, with the bench seats front and back — and all of 19 cubic feet of luggage space in that trim trunk. More than ever, MORRIS MAKES SENSE!

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — James Thurber good-naturedly contends that, due to television, many young people today believe that Lincoln shot Grover Cleveland and that the current President of the United States is Bat Masterson.

Still, though he can't see much TV himself due to his partial blindness, he's pleased at becoming a character in it. "I sit and listen," Thurber said the other afternoon at the Algonquin. "I'm not an addict of the Westerns but I can hear the hang-bangs. I hear the shots very clearly."

It seemed sad that Thurber wasn't able to see himself portrayed by Arthur O'Connell in a recent Goodyear Theatre show called "Christabel" based on two of his short stories. Thurber said there were plenty of young people who didn't know history when he was one of the young people.

"I remember," Thurber said, "on the last day of a history class at Ohio State in 1914, after the bell had rung, Prof. Arthur Schlesinger Sr., the old man saying, 'Mr. Spencer, who is President of the United States?'"

"Mr. Spencer said 'Woodrow Wilson,' Professor Schlesinger said, 'Thank you. I was determined that you get one question right this year.'"

"How did you get into this projected TV series based on Thurber stories?" I asked him. "Helen," he called to his wife, "do you know how it started?"

"He doesn't listen to business-deals," his wife explained. "What was that man's name, Goldstone? We've gotten to the age where we can't remember names."

"William S. Hart... no?" said Thurber, dryly. "Julius C. Goldstone had induced Melville Shavelson to write one script, had made a pilot film and now maybe Thurber, played by O'Connell, will be on TV every week in the fall — a literary Wyatt Earp.

Thurber, despite the genius for fantasy, is a friend for facts, and delights in TV show that test knowledge. He's appalled that most girls don't know American history.

"Ask them to name nine presidents," he declares, "and they'd say Roosevelt five times and have a hell of a time finding four others."

Thurber repeatedly reverted to the late Harold Ross, subject of his new book, "The Years With Ross."

He remembered joining The New York Post (then The Evening Post) Sept. 1, 1926 and being lured to the New Yorker about seven months later. What, incidentally, was his outstanding reportorial job on the Post?

"Getting an interview with Thomas Alva Edison eight years after he said he'd never see another newspaperman," he replied instantly.

"I went over to New Jersey to get a story about a long-playing record. I wanted to ask him about it and somebody said, 'Mr. Edison is asleep.'"

"I said, 'What do you mean asleep? It's 3 o'clock in the afternoon!' The great sleepless wonder who only slept two hours a night was sleeping in the afternoon."

Thurber waited until the nap was over — and Edison talked his head off.

After Thurber went to The New Yorker as a reporter a secretary would come in every week and say, "This is the day you approve and sign things."

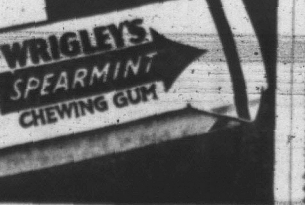

Weeks later he thought to ask, "What the hell am I signing?"

The girl said, "Well, you are the managing editor, didn't you know? You have to start out as managing editor, like everybody else."

Thurber added, "It took me months to convince Ross. I wasn't an editor. Usually a managing editor found out that he had been managing editor — not that he was."

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by children and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 35-volume set of Colman's Picture Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Ann Thompson, aged 10, of Moreland, Georgia, for her question:

How Do They Make Commercial Yetas?

Yeast is a valuable protein food. It contains nearly as much protein as beef and far less fats. These facts make it a valuable body-building food. If the world's meat supply ran short, we could manufacture yeast diets to take its place. With proper yeast culture, 5,000 pounds of yeast becomes 25,000 pounds in 10 1/2 hours. This 12 1/2 tons of yeast contains as much protein as there is in 80 pigs.

Yeast culture is the growing of yeast, much as a farmer cultivates crops. For yeasts are really tiny plants of the mushroom family. Like mushrooms, they need shade, warmth and rich food. When these conditions are just right the yeast will double its weight in two hours. The culture is done in a large vat where food is mixed with the yeast cells and the temperature is carefully controlled.

The yeast food, in liquid form, is first poured into the culture vat. It is called wort and there are various recipes for preparing it. The main ingredient is sugar, which may be added in the form of molasses. Yeast cells cannot digest starch, which is the cheapest of foods. We cannot feed starch to yeasts, but we can feed them starch which has been converted into sugar.

Starchy grains of corn are pulped and cooked. The mash is mixed with ground barley, malt and rye. Sprouted barley is added and this converts the starch mash into malt sugar.

Malt sugar provides the yeast with a balanced diet. If molasses is used, nitrogen in the form of ammonium salts must be added to the recipe. The first 20,000 gallons of wort poured into the vat is a very watery mixture, containing only a trace of yeast-food. A milky wash of 300 pounds of yeast is added to the tank and air is piped into the mixture.

The little oval-shaped yeast cells eat and grow. In about two hours each is ready to multiply by dividing into two cells. The culture is now ready for a second feeding. About 800 gallons of stronger wort is added and smaller amounts of stronger and stronger food will be added until the entire mixture is converted into yeast.

Malt Sugar Transformed

The job takes 10 to 12 hours. Just as corn becomes pork when eaten by a pig so this malt sugar is eaten and turned into yeast. The finished product is a creamy-colored soup. The liquid is filtered out and the yeast drained dry. It is pressed into cakes and kept under refrigeration until needed. The bulk of this yeast will be used for making our bread. The little plant cells refuse to grow in the cold. But, when mixed with warm water and a little sugar, they wake up and start to eat and multiply. As they eat they give off carbon dioxide gas which makes bubbles in the bread dough. The oven is too hot for the yeast cells so, after baking, they grow no more. They have made the bread light and added protein, which is quite a good day's work.

Annual RCN Pacific Command fleet regatta got down to serious business today of pulling sweeps in heavy whalers as ship and shore establishments compete for Cock-of-the-Fleet Trophy now held by HMCS Beacon Hill. Sailing events were run off Thursday, with two top "brass" scoring wins. Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, Flag

Officer, and Commodore John Deane, Dockyard superintendent, were winning skippers. At noon today, Beacon Hill was again leading with 73,742 points, but being hard pressed by HMCS Naden (73,272 points) and HMCS Sussexvale (72,014). (Times Photo by Halkett.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I hate to come right out and say this, with my bare print showing, but I am afraid our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor is derelict in his duties.

(To be truthful, I sometimes wonder if our V-W-A Editor holds his job only because he is a cousin of Horace Snifkin.)

Any way you look at it, our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor should have done something with the business section of the current issue of Time Magazine.

Item: Time reports a contraption which cooks hot dogs in 90 seconds by the use of electrodes.

Item: Time reports a motorized bed that wakes the sleeper in the morning by raising him to a sitting position. And at the same time turns on the radio, TV, coffee percolator, and phonograph.

Item: Time reports a "spill-proof" baby training spoon with a swivel-action grip that keeps the spoon level no matter how the baby grips it.

You are beginning to see why our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor has fallen down on the job.

Long before now, he should have pointed out the dangers inherent in the alleged technological advances noted above.

He should have Viewed With Alarm the baby whose first grasp on life is a chubby hand clasp a swivel-handled spoon, which fails to spill no matter what the poor baby does in his effort to splatter pabulum on the floor.

This baby, obviously, will grow to manhood with the impression that every side is up, whether it be down, sideways, or at 45 degrees.

The time will come, of course, when the baby born to the swivel-handled spoon will encounter his first swizzle stick.

At which time he will not know whether to swivel, swizzle, or sizzle.

Which brings us to the 90-second hot dog, a revolting thought if ever I heard one.

To enjoy a hot dog, even a swivel-spoon baby has to be hungry, and nobody can get hot-dog hungry in 90 seconds.

Then, to top it all, our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor should have contemplated the effect of the bed which sits up, turns on the radio, TV, phonograph and coffee percolator.

Think what this will do to the already-shattered nerves of the swivel-spoon baby.

Slave of the spoon which will not spill, captive of the 90-second hot dog, he is now automatically raised to a sitting position with coffee at the ready.

When he would much rather have stood in bed with a good cup of tea.

Federal Farm Services Amalgamate

Dominion Experimental Farm near Sidney will be known after next April 1 as a federal Agricultural Research Farm, superintendent J. J. Woods announced Thursday night.

Speaking at a gathering of Farmers' Institute members at the farm, he said an amalgamation move will bring together the farm, the plant pathology laboratory, and the entomological laboratory in Victoria. The combined organization will be under his jurisdiction, he said.

The function of the three federal departments—research to benefit island farmers—will be unchanged, but the three groups will be in closer liaison and "an improved team approach" to problems will be possible, Mr. Woods stated.

The Experimental Farm was toured by Saanich and South Vancouver Island Farmers' Institute members and invited representatives from Farmers' Institutes at Metehosin and Cobble Hill.

Capt. C. R. Wilson, 8433 Ben Gordon, addressed the group on various problems facing farmers in B.C.

PERNICKETY GUN PLAYS LEAD ROLE

Will the gun go boom? Will the gun go phfft? Or will the gun just sit there and do nothing at all?

This tense drama will be played out at the Legislative Buildings this evening when the 5th (B.C.) Independent Medium Battery, RCA, carries out the sunset ceremony.

The gun in question is a muzzle-loading cannon, made in 1879, which refused to fire at the sunset ceremony a week ago. But, as one of the gun crew, WO1 Leonard Griffiths explains, "anyone in her 81st year is entitled to a night off."

The gunners are hoping for a bang-up time tonight, starting at 8.45.

Long-Time Sally Ann Member Dies

Born in Watford, Ont., both she and her husband, the late Envoy Thomas H. Collier, volunteered for officership in the Army shortly after it was founded in Canada, and they were married at St. John's in the first Salvation Army wedding conducted in Newfoundland.

After many years as senior executive officers in Salvation Army appointments throughout Canada, and because of their social service experience, they were chosen by the B.C. government in 1913 as superintendent and matron of the Girls' Industrial School in Vancouver.

Surviving are two sons, Reeve Stanley G. Collier of West Vancouver, and Col. Bramwell Collier, with the Salvation Army in Pasadena, Calif.; and a daughter, Mrs. Gladys E. Rice, 2179 Pentland Road, with whom Mrs. Collier made her home.

The funeral will be held at Harron Bros. Chapel in Vancouver, Monday at 1 p.m. Arrangements were made here by Sam's Mortuary Ltd.

Freedom Leap Ends in Front Of Magistrate

A trio of young men got the jump on city police early today but they wound up in custody anyway.

While being pursued by Const. R. L. Redman, the three jumped off the roof of Fashion Cleaners, 758 Yates, beside the Odeon Theatre, breaking neon lights valued at $67 in their 25-foot drop to the ground.

William Charles Ruthven and Robert Gary Brown, 1601 Esquimalt, and Ronald Lorne Ruthven, 833 Admirals, all pleaded guilty in city police court to causing wilful damage over $50.

Const. Redman told court while on patrol he heard a noise at the rear of the theatre at about 12.40 a.m. and investigated.

They were remanded to next Wednesday for a probation report and sentence.

Youth Facing Charges After Hit-and-Run

Charges are pending against a 20-year-old driver of a car which hit a power pole about midnight Thursday doing extensive damage to the vehicle and snapping the pole at its base.

The driver ran away from the accident scene.

The crash took place at Bay and Cook, bringing startled pajama-clad residents of the area out of bed.

The car driver was accompanied by a 15-year-old girl, police said. She also fled.

Mrs. Margaret Wright, 2525 Cook, offered the driver use of her telephone to call police, but he said "No thank you, I'm going to get one," and then fled the scene, she said.

She chased him for two blocks and gave up pursuit when the youth dodged into bushes near Haultain and Empire.

The splintered pole was knocked 15 feet off centre.

Chatterton Hits Out At Former Reeve's 'Dark Age' Thinking

On the eve of the Saanich by-election, Reeve George Chatterton today lashed out at the by-election platform of ex-reeve Joseph Casey as "retrograde" and "harking back to the dark ages."

About 21,000 ratepayers are eligible to vote at the polls Saturday to elect one of seven candidates seeking election on a council seat left vacant by the resignation of Charles Nelles.

At the same time about 3,300 ratepayers in the Shelbourne-Gordon Head-Cadboro Bay districts are entitled to vote on a $1,066,000 sewer by-law.

BREAKS SILENCE

Vote on the by-law is confined to people living in the proposed sewer district. Polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

The reeve, who refrained from commenting on attacks on his council's policies during this week's by-election campaign, broke silence today on some of the controversial issues involved.

"In view of the wild statements made by Mr. Casey and some of the candidates in the by-election, I have been asked by council to make a reply," he said.

Reeve Chatterton said Mr. Casey's attitude towards the proper planning and development of Saanich was almost "criminal" and lacking in foresight.

He charged the retired B.C. Electric official with trying to convey to the people of Saanich that huge sums of money are being spent on town planning.

NOT ENOUGH

"The truth is that Saanich in the last eight years has spent $31,000 on planning," he said. "We are not spending enough."

"Mr. Casey said planning is a lot of bunk," he added. "People should beware of a man with that sort of an attitude."

Reeve Chatterton pointed out that private business spends 10 per cent of its costs on planning a project.

"Here in Saanich we have an asset of $100,000,000, and he (Mr. Casey) suggests that we should not plan for proper development," he said. "A great deal of the problems and heavy expenditures of today were caused by the complete lack of planning in the past."

POLICY

The reeve said ratepayers are at least entitled to a policy for the proper development of their municipality.

The reeve also criticized Mr. Casey for opposing the proposed sewer project in the Shelbourne-Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head area. (Mr. Casey said the sewer project was premature.)

Reeve Chatterton noted the municipal engineer estimated it cost 100 per cent more to install sewers on fully developed land.

The reeve also accused Mr. Casey of conveying a misleading impression that the Saanich building inspection department is over-staffed.

"Anyone who stands for less inspection of buildings is not acting in the interest of the people," he said. "People demand a certain protection from council when it comes to buildings."

He said a great deal of septic tank and sanitary problems in Saanich today were due to inadequate inspection or supervision in the past.

"Does Mr. Casey suggest that we do away with percolation tests of soils?" he asked.

"If Mr. Casey felt any moral obligation to home owners he would think differently."

"In my opinion Mr. Casey's policies are dangerous and not in the interest of the public."

Atomic Power Plant For B.C. Far Away

By PETE LOUDON

Atomic production of electrical energy is years away in British Columbia despite federal plans to locate an atomic power station in Ontario.

The House of Commons was told Thursday that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will pay part of a $60,000,000 cost of a 200,000 kilowatt station expected to be completed in 1964 at an undetermined site.

Trade Minister Churchill said also the Magitimes and Manitoba may be considering similar atomic plants in the late 1960s.

B.C. Power Commission planning engineer, A. W. Lash, said today, however, any such development would be uneconomic in B.C. at least until present hydro resources are used up.

EXPENSIVE

Development of atomic power in its early stages would be far more expensive than development of hydro resources such as the Columbia, the Homathko and the Clearwater, to name just a few, he said.

"The situation is different in Ontario—their hydro reserves are used up. They have to use what is available."

Mr. Lash is currently serving on a 12-man sub-committee set up by the International Joint Commission, to assist in preliminary dealings in the proposed development of Columbia River hydro.

He and B.C. Water Comptroller A. F. Paget are B.C. representatives on a committee which includes six Canadians and six American delegates.

They met recently in Portland.

Following announcement last week by Gen. A. G. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the IJC, that international talks are moving toward agreement for return to B.C. of 50 per cent of U.S. benefits if the Columbia is dammed, the sub-committee is seeking to determine the volume of the power benefit it is entitled to. No findings have yet been announced.

Two Saves In Day for Boat Crew

Two rescue missions were completed successfully Thursday in waters offshore from Tofino by the transport department Tofino-based lifeboat, skippered by Coxswain R. Hagelin.

The first was in mid-afternoon, after Jack Walter and Robert Douglass, both of Tofino, hit a swell near Leonard Island light which tore the bottom out of their speedboat.

They were taken to safety aboard a fishboat, but transferred to the lifeboat when it answered their call for help. The lifeboat also towed the wrecked craft, otherwise a navigation menace, to Tofino Harbor for repairs.

Second call came at 11 p.m., when it went to the aid of the troller Dolores K, whose skipper, J. Keitlah of Ahousat, had reported engine trouble between Tofino and Ahousat. The stricken craft was towed to safety.

AT OREGON CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS

'Great Welcome Awaits Canadians'

The Pacific Northwest is "the one area in the United States which was realized by occupation," Victoria Rotarians were told by Portland attorney-lecturer Frank Branch Riley at their weekly meeting Thursday.

"The Northwest was settled peacefully by the indomitable pioneers of the old Oregon Trail, and it is the jewel of them all."

Mr. Riley, told Rotarians that "a great welcome awaited Canadians" at the Oregon Centennial, now in progress.

"It occupies 65 acres and has exhibits from 20 countries," the speaker said. "We have put together the finest trade fair in America."

For 100 days we are reliving the glorious days of the wagon trains. The mail is being delivered today by stagecoach. The magnificent Columbia is being traversed by Indians in war canoes. Ancient forts have been recreated. Turning to assets of the friend George.

neighboring state, Mr. Riley said that it contained one-fifth of the standing timber in America today—"enough to build a home for every American and put a fence around it," and much had been preserved in national parks.

The Columbia, he said, provided more electric ranges per capita for Portland's 420,000 citizens than the 8,000,000 people of New York.

The speaker, introduced by George Warren, drew a hearty laugh from his audience when he spoke in dramatic tones of the glories of Victoria, and then said:

"For the past five minutes I have been quoting publicity notes as supplied by my old friend George."

Arranged in chronological order, it shows pictures of princes and princesses from childhood through maturity, including those of many generations; christenings, weddings, coronations, tours, reviews, openings of parliament and many other events. Arranging the collection for display are, from the left, Mrs. G. Ranson, A. E. Raymond and Mrs. K. Lowndes, all members of the retarded children's group. Proceeds from the showing will assist in the work of the association. The exhibition will be opened Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sagging Bust Need Not Follow the Baby's Birth

Q—"I am expecting my first baby in a few weeks. Is there any particular exercise I can do after the birth of my baby to prevent a sagging bustline? I have always had a very firm bust but I understand that sagging breasts are unavoidable after having a child."

A—"Many women have babies and nurse them and still retain a firm bust. Preventative measures are more effective than corrective ones. I hope you have worn a brassiere during these nine months which was designed to support the extra weight of the bust at this time. This is even more important now if you nurse your baby than it was during pregnancy.

Also always lie down when nursing your child. As soon as your doctor says you can do so take exercises for firming the abdominal muscles. You also can take some, then, for increasing the chest muscles. This will lift the bust.

Along this same line I have just received a letter from a reader who says, "I wish you would pass this along to the woman who was trying to decide whether or not to nurse her baby. She doesn't know what she is missing if she doesn't. I have seen more women with a sagging bust who never even had a child, than I have among those who nursed their infants."

"I have nursed my four children but I always wore the right kind of brassiere and was careful about good posture. I haven't a sag!"

Q—"I am a girl of 15 years. My problem is that I have such rough skin on my legs. It looks goose-pimply even in hot weather."

A—"Sometimes a vitamin deficiency causes such a condition. I suggest that you see your family physician and ask him about this. He will recommend a dermatologist if he feels you need one."

Q—"Do you think that 12 is too young for shaving legs if I don't do it very often?"

A—"No, not if you really need it. I would delay for as long as you can because the hairs are stubby when they grow back in."

Q—"What is best to use for bleaching hair on my upper lip?"

A—"Peroxide is as good as anything."

Q—"Is it normal for one breast to be larger than the other?"

A—"Not if the difference is at all great. See your physician about this."

Police Clean Up 'Park Bedroom'

LONDON (AP)—A government spokesman said Thursday police are trying hard to clean up Hyde Park, which evangelist Billy Graham described as an open-air bedroom.

"In the last three months," Home Secretary R. A. Butler told the House of Commons, "there have been no less than 530 prosecutions for soliciting, indecency and insulting behavior in Hyde Park alone."

Graham told reporters last week he and his wife were shocked by the behavior they saw during a walk around the famous greensward.

The historic Liberty Bell at Independence Hall in Philadelphia weighs 2,080 pounds.

ETHEL, LAST OF BARRYMORES, DIES

Theatre 'Dynasty' Is Over

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death came quietly Thursday to Ethel Barrymore and closed the curtain on an era ruled by a proud theatrical dynasty.

She died in her sleep. She had been an invalid in her Beverly Hills apartment for more than a year with a heart ailment and would have been 80 Aug. 15.

For more than six decades her regal bearing and resonant voice had captivated audiences. She had been a star of the theatre, movies, radio and television.

The sharp-witted actress, who originally wanted to be a pianist, was the last surviving member of a theatrical triumvirate that included her late brothers John and Lionel.

"We Barrymores became actors not because we wanted to go on the stage," she once explained, "but simply because it was the thing we could do best."

Ethel was the most versatile, ranging from light comedy to tragedy with equal skill. She won a 1944 Academy Award for her portrayal of the fatally ill mother in None But the Lonely Heart and nominations for Spiral Staircase and Pinky.

In New York, the Ethel Barrymore Theatre dimmed its lights for five minutes before starting the night's performance.

At 21, she starred on Broadway in Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines. It was the first of more than two score starring roles.

In 1909, she disappointed dozens of suitors by marrying Russell Griswold Colt, of the firearms family. They had three children and were divorced in 1923. Miss Barrymore, a Roman Catholic, never remarried.

Her last years were quiet, surrounded by books, two cats and mementos of the past.

AA (Woolly White) AA (Oscar Class) B (For Rainy Days) A (Don't Miss) C (To put in time)

(BB Film) "CARRY ON SERGEANT" AND "SQUARE PEG" (Odeon) — The British has offered a couple of comedies for Canadian consumption that possess a fair quantity of laughs, "Carry on Sergeant" and "Square Peg," with England's No. 1 cinema clown, Norman Wisdom.

Unfortunately they are both based humorously on army life and whereas one of them might have been funny mixed with say a cowboy film or a crime drama, together they tend to drag. At the end it's difficult to remember where one started and the other left off.

Because it does not depend upon the humor of one person but on a group of clever comics who make up an aggregation of weird, wild and wonderful trainees "Carry on Sergeant" emerges as the better of the two. Numbering in its cast the likes of Bob Monkhouse, Shirley Eaton and William Hartnell this is truly funny in spots as there is an international air to the whole. What is happening in the film might apply to any army in the world. No matter where you train, misfits is misfits.

If reports I read are correct then Norman Wisdom truly wows them on the other side of the Atlantic. Unfortunately the wide-mouthed comic leaves me little warmer than luke.

As in his other films, such as "Trouble in Store," he works hard in "Square Peg." He runs a million miles, wrestles, grapples, contorts his face, shows his teeth, is sad; happy, gloomy, radiant, abashed, aggressive and anything else that the human face can register, and more.

Perhaps that's the trouble, he works too hard for what he produces. Certainly he isn't a patch on English comedians of the past such as Ralph Lynn, Tom Walls, the versatile Jack Hulbert, Jack Buchanan and Owen Nares, to mention but a few.

THE WEDDING OF BRIGITTE BARDOT

Papa Bites Photog

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot married Jacques Charrier Thursday in a hectic atmosphere of comic opera. The sexy French movie star alternately sobbed and giggled.

The pouting little pony-tailed blonde, whose undressed movie scenes have furrowed the brows of censors all over the world, was furious when photographers appeared.

The ceremony was finally performed in the cramped office of Mayor Fernand Guillaume in suburban Louveciennes. The shutters were closed tight against photographic lenses.

Guillaume, nervous after a shouting match with Brigitte's father, muffled his lines. Jacques and Brigitte, cuddling closely with her head nestling on his shoulder, giggled.

"I don't want to have my picture taken," cried Brigitte. That set off a new explosion of flashbulbs.

Brigitte's father, a Paris industrialist, grabbed one of the cameras and asked a startled photographer: "Do you want me to bash your face in?"

Bardot then bit the photographer on the hand.

Brigitte took refuge in the mayor's adjacent private office, where she broke down in sobs.

But before any blood vessels burst, calm returned and the ceremony concluded.

32 BRIDGE LESSON
By OSWALD JACOBY
It was the last round of a duplicate and everyone was trying for a top score. East started out with his three-club bid and if South had passed he could have acquired his top score the easy way. North would double for take-out but South would leave it in and open a spade. Eventually East would be down four tricks. South got his top the hard way. He bid three hearts and after North jumped to five South went on to the slam. He had no play at all for it with a spade opening but West opened the 10-of-clubs. South still had no play but with West's help he made the hand. He won the first trick and laid down the jack of hearts. Without stopping to think West's bid followed the rule of plover an honor with an ace and went up with the king. Now dummy's ace stopped the king and queen together and after drawing the rest of the trumps South went after 4-5 diamonds and established dummy's last diamond to provide a discard for his losing club. All-in-all a hard hand should qualify as worst and luckiest of the year.

Time Plus One Day For Chemainus Man

(From Duncan Bureau)

Richard Harrington Douglas, 20, of Chemainus, was sentenced Thursday in Duncan to the time he has already spent in custody and one additional day by Judge L. A. Hanna after a two-day County Court trial where evidence was heard for the third time on the baseball bat beating of two RCMP constables.

Special UN School For UBC

VANCOUVER (CP)—A regional training centre for recipients of United Nations fellowships from underdeveloped countries is to be established at the University of British Columbia by the UN technical assistance division, it was announced Thursday.

The centre will formulate specific programs to meet the individual needs of fellows coming to North America for training in their own fields.

It will work out intensive programs of from six months to one year, sending the students to different companies and government departments dealing with problems similar to those in their own countries.

Most of the fellows are experienced civil servants who need additional training to be able to handle more important positions.

Dr. Albert Lepawsky of the University of California political science department will head the centre.

Dr. Lepawsky says a major factor in locating the centre at UBC is the fact the western North America is a developing region.

"We hope the fellows can learn more here than if they were to study a region of North America which is highly developed already."

Approximately 25 fellows are expected to come in the first year of the program. The maximum will be 50 a year when the program is well under way.

The Canadian government has made a $10,000 grant to the plan.

Freight Volume For Vancouver Leads Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Freight volume handled at Canadian ports increased 16 per cent in March and 20 per cent in the first quarter of 1959, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The March volume rose to 4,232,530 tons from 3,656,484, bringing the cumulative total to 12,034,145 tons from 9,988,287 in the January-March period last year.

Foreign trade loadings increased in March to 1,792,698 tons from 1,654,300 and unloadings to 659,928 tons from 424,658 last year.

Canadian ports registering the greatest volume of shipping in March were Vancouver, 1,005,541 tons, Halifax 671,657 tons and Saint John, N.B., 506,007 tons.

Library Backers Seek $25,000 In Nanaimo Drive

NANAIMO—A drive to raise $25,000 for the construction of a new library here will be launched immediately by the newly-formed Nanaimo Library Building Society.

It is hoped the building can be erected on Lubbock Square, city-owned property where the health centre and RCMP headquarters already form a nucleus for a civic centre. Present plans call for a start in 1960.

Included in the membership of 50 are representatives of 30 city and district organizations with a total membership of 1,500.

Honorary officers are Mayor Pete Maffeo and Miss Margaret Clay, president of the B.C. Library Commission.

Active officers are Arthur Lionel, president; John Hunter, vice-president; T. Wollard, treasurer; and Mrs. R. J. Creighton, secretary.

The offence took place in Chemainus April 13, 1958. Crown prosecutor Harold Hine drew evidence which proved Douglas had aided and abetted a companion with the intent to prevent the arrest of a third companion and caused bodily harm to a police constable.

NEW TRIAL

Donald Sherwood, Chemainus; Roger Lampitt, Nanaimo; Robert Brooks, Chemainus; and Douglas were all sentenced by Magistrate W. H. Bryant in Chemainus police court May 30, 1959.

Douglas appealed his case, and the Court of Appeal ordered a new trial when it was found the testimony given at his trial had not been transcribed from the shorthand taken by court stenographer Herbert Maisey before his death in January.

Douglas was defended by E. G. McKinnon at the preliminary hearing May 20, when he elected to be tried by a judge. Unable to raise bail for his release, he had remained in custody until the hearing.

RECORD VOTE

recorded from 589,000 eligible to vote.

The Social Credit popular vote increased to 56 per cent from 47 per cent in 1955 when the party elected 37 members. The PC vote increased to 23 per cent from nine while the Liberal figure dropped to 14 per cent from 31 and the CCF to five from eight.

Grand MacEwan, elected Liberal leader last year to succeed the retired J. Harper Prowse, was defeated in Calgary North by Social Credit Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, who has sat in the House for 15 years. She was one of four women elected.

W. J. C. Kirby, 51-year-old lawyer picked last year as the first Progressive Conservative leader for Alberta in 22 years, lost his bid for re-election at the hands of William Ure, Social Credit candidate in Red Deer.

Mr. Kirby was first elected to the legislature in 1954 in a by-election caused by the death of Mr. Ure's brother, a cabinet member. The PC leader beat Mr. Ure in 1956.

CCF Leader Floyd Johnson, only leader who did not have a seat in the last legislature, failed in the new riding of Dunvegan.

The Social Credit party contested 64 seats and supported Earl Ansley, one-time education minister in the administration, as an Independent Social Credit.

Mr. Ansley was thrown out of the party when he differed with policy and sat on the opposition side, but it is expected he will be invited back.

The Conservatives put 60 candidates in the field, the Liberals 51 and CCF 31. The rest of the 216-candidate field included four members of the Labor-Progressive Communist party.

Besides Mr. Ansley, the other three opposition members elected sat in the last legislature. It will be up to them to decide who becomes official opposition leader with a special allowance of $2,500 for each session.

Liberal Michael Maccagno held Lac la Biche, Coalition candidate Frank Gainer retained his Banff-Cochrane seat in a battle with Social Credit, and Conservative Ernest Watkins scored a victory in Calgary Glenmore.

Premier Manning said in victory speech: "As we rejoice in this hour of victory, let us not let this joy cloud the minds of each member to the responsibility they and the government face as a result."

Menzies, De Gaulle Talk Over Troubles

PARIS (UPI)—Australian Premier Robert G. Menzies met Gen. Charles de Gaulle today in what informed sources said was an effort to smooth over France's strained relations with her allies.

Menzies, here on a flying 24-hour visit, met the French president at the presidential Elysee Palace only half an hour after arriving from Germany.

B.C. Artillerymen In Wide Open Spaces

CAMP SHILO — Tap the nearest artilleryman on the shoulder in this sprawling army base and chances are you will find he is from British Columbia.

Almost 40 per cent of the 200 militia members who are attending summer camp here this year are from British Columbia, and altogether they represent four artillery units normally based on the west coast, and one reserve Provost company.

Swede's Training Curious Program

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (CP)—Ingemar Johansson's training routine gets curiouser and curiouser.

The husky Swede ran his last training miles Thursday. On Saturday he quits the boxing routine.

That will give him five long days to ponder the problems facing him when he meets world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Yankee Stadium, Thursday, June 25.

The handsome, 26-year-old challenger went on the road Thursday with his Swedish physician, Dr. Gosta Karlsson. After four miles, Dr. Karlsson told Ingo he had enough.

"He finished with a 300-yard sprint," said Dr. Karlsson. "He was real strong, too. But four miles is enough. He's in fine shape and has done enough running."

What will Johansson do after Saturday?

"I shall merely loosen up and shadow box," he replied. "I usually stop training four or five days before a fight. That way I build up my strength daily. That is the way I train. I've always found myself very strong by fight time."

Using this unique system Johansson has won all 21 of his pro fights, 13 of them by knockouts. He is the European champion.

"Only I know my own body," said Ingo. "Each day as I rest I can feel the strength flowing into my body and into my arms. I feel more and more powerful. My right hand—my knockout hand—gets stronger and stronger."

"I know that if I hit Patterson with the full power of my right hand he will go down and out."

This is the vaunted thunder-bolt Ingo hasn't displayed in training.

Daily, and with unusual patience, he tells inquiring reporters that he doesn't like to hurt his sparring partners.

This could be the greatest confidence game since the late first full day of their Canadian tour in the historic old Newfoundland capital of St. John's.

They attended a morning reception at Government House where they spent the night and visited the new Confederation building overlooking the fog-shrouded harbor before leaving for Gander.

At the Confederation building workmen employed on construction of the $8,000,000 structure were introduced by Premier Smallwood.

The Queen shook hands with several carpenters and masons, including carpenter John Trickett of Spout Cove. "It's a real pleasure to be able to meet the Queen," he said.

The first workman she met was Thomas Saunders of Botwood, an 18-year-old apprentice carpenter.

TALLEST BUILDING

The Queen was obviously interested in the new building, to be the tallest in Newfoundland when completed. The premier showed the Queen where the building was located in relation to Elizabeth Avenue which was named after her following the 1951 Royal Tour.

As the Queen toured the grounds around the 10-storey Confederation building, Premier Smallwood described the view from the hill where the structure is located.

Premier Smallwood opened a scroll and read an announcement of Newfoundland's gift to the Queen — plans to spend $10,000 a year on the education of mentally-retarded children. He gave her a copy and kept another for presentation to the provincial archives.

Seamen's Union Ousted by CLC In Raiding Row

OTTAWA (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union has been thrown out of the Canadian Labor Congress.

For persistently tossing its weight against other CLC affiliates in defiance of congress warnings, the SIU finally was dropped overboard by the congress' executive committee Thursday.

Its suspension from the 1,000,000-member main central body of Canadian labor will hold good until at least next spring. Then, the seafarers may appeal to the biennial convention of the congress.

Executive committee members, who have been snubbed publicly on occasion by Canadian director Hal C. Banks of the SIU, finally lost patience with him Thursday. They told him that he and his 12,000-member union were out of the congress, after having him on the carpet at a closed session.

RAIDING ENGINEERS

The decision of the 22-member executive council was taken after Banks' union refused to quit raiding the small—about 1,200 members—National Association of Marine Engineers.

The SIU has grabbed off several hundred of its members in the last couple of years, in defiance of a no-raiding clause in the CLC constitution and various formal and informal warnings from the CLC leadership.

Whether or not Banks is unhappy about the outcome is questionable. He could not be reached for comment Thursday night, either here or in Montreal.

FREE HAND

It is possible he might welcome, or even may have instigated, the decision of the committee.

Certainly, it will give him a free hand in further feuding with both the engineers' union and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, another CLC affiliate.

He will have no CLC worries, at least for some time.

In the background is a scrap between the brotherhood and the seafarers for control of

2 Hurt as Wire Sparks Accident

Two Saanich teen-agers were in Royal Jubilee Hospital today following a freak accident Thursday when a loose sparkplug wire shocked a motorcyclist and he lost control of his machine.

Cyclist Gordon William Hatch, 16, of 4331 Tyndall, who suffered a fractured skull, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today by hospital officials following a restful night.

Pedestrian Stephen McGaw, 18, of 1643 Kenmore, who suffered head injuries and a possible broken left leg was listed as "fair and unchanged."

Police said the sparkplug wire came loose and shocked Hatch while he was riding along the 4200 block Shelbourne about noon. He lost control, veered to the sidewalk and struck the pedestrian.

Pickled onion rings are the answer when you need a last-minute relish. To make them, slice two medium onions, separate into rings and let stand in 1/4 cup white vinegar in which has been dissolved one tablespoon sugar and 1/4 teaspoon salt. For a change pickle some cucumber slices with the onions.

35 Steelworkers Threaten Strike

Some 35 Victoria men are among 600 B.C. high steel workers who have given notice they may go on strike any time.

Official strike notice was given to the Structural Steel Association of B.C. by the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers.

The men involved work on buildings. Shipyard steelworkers are not affected.

Under B.C. law the men may go on strike any time in the 90 days after notice is given.

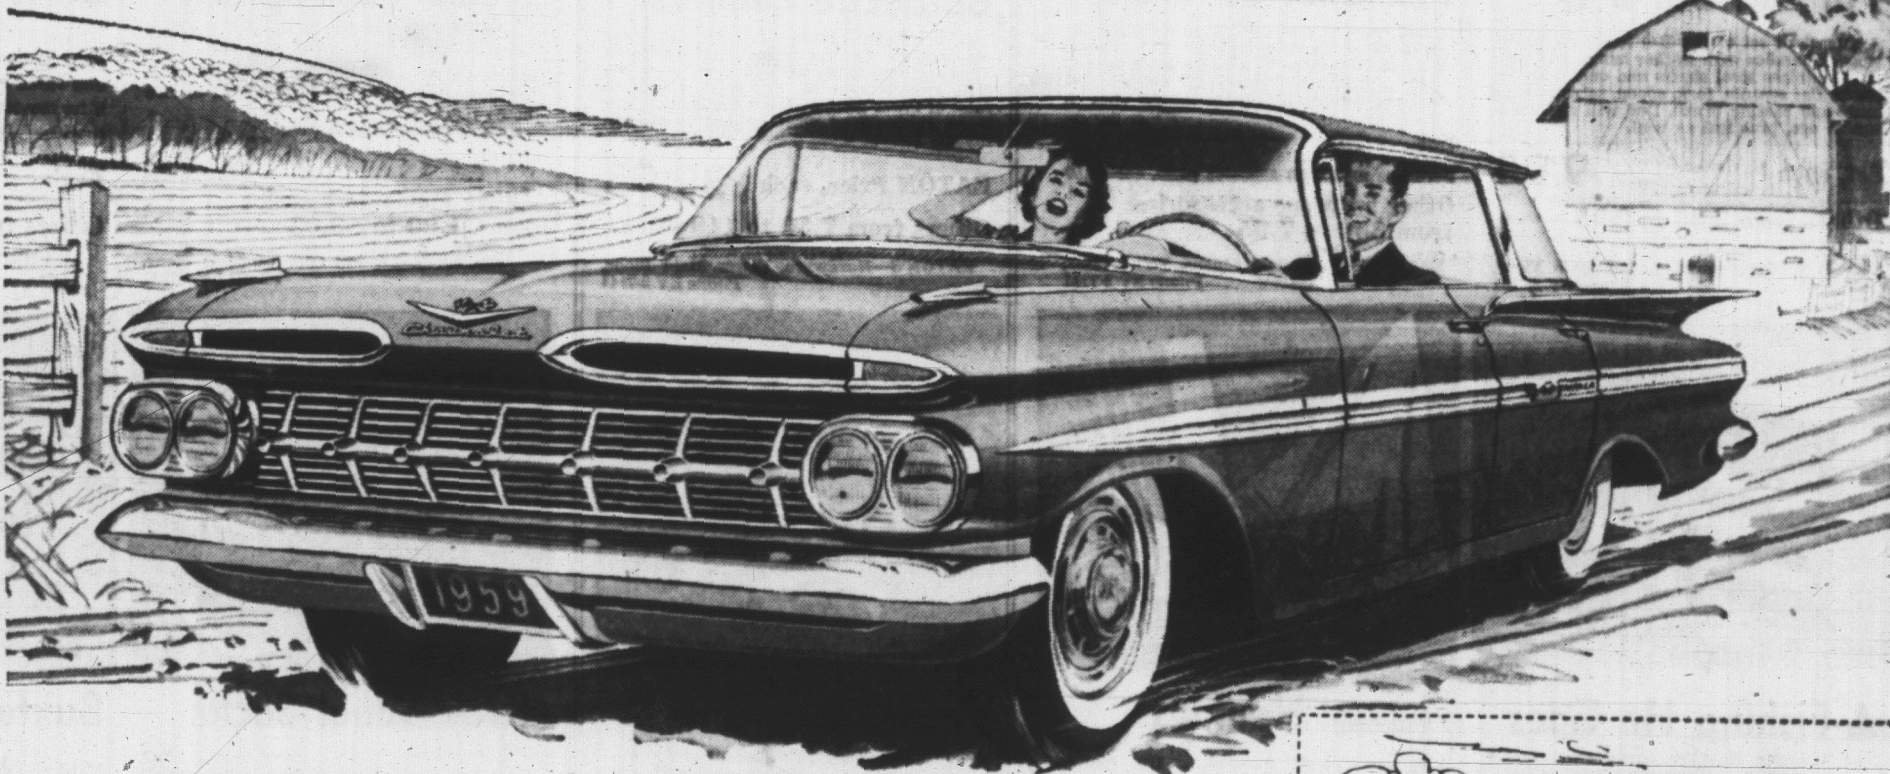

The threatened action comes after the union rejected an employers' offer of another 44 cents an hour over 27 months. Present basic rate is $2.62.

Most important issues in dispute are travelling time and the employers' wish to import labor from Alberta.

PIG STY EXILE CURED —WITH SOAP AND WATER

ROENNE, Denmark (UPI)—Doctors today began rehabilitating a 38-year-old man who lived with pigs for a year. They gave him a bath.

He exiled himself to the pig sty last summer after losing his job as a fisherman. He hid in the pig shack for a year. He told police he was too ashamed to face his family and friends because of losing his job as a fisherman.

Geneva Talks Collapse —Three-Week Recess

Unable to Reach Any Agreement

(From Times News Services)

GENEVA—The Big Four foreign ministers' conference collapsed today and went into a three-week recess after 40 days of talks that got nowhere.

Last-minute proposals by both East and West failed to achieve any measure of agreement on Berlin or Germany. The decision to recess until July 13 came after Russia made a final offer to extend Western occupation rights in Berlin from 12 to 18 months. A formal windup session of the current conference will be held Saturday.

NO HOPE

The three Western foreign ministers studied the Russian proposals for three hours and then returned to a private session with Foreign Minister Gromyko to give their reply. They were grim-faced as they drove to Gromyko's villa. Western officials said during the three-hour break in the Big Four talks that the Russian plan offered no hope of agreement.

A Western spokesman said it was understood that Gromyko "has not accepted the Western proposals for a stopgap Berlin agreement even as a basis for discussion."

A speech in Moscow today by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, apparently finally rejecting the West's compromise offer, added to the gloom at Geneva.

Russia's new proposals also were reported to call for a non-aggression treaty between East and West Germany pending German reunification.

The British spokesman said: "Mr. Gromyko has not accepted the Western proposals for an interim solution of the Berlin problem even as a basis for discussion."

Furthermore, the Soviet position as put forward this afternoon by Mr. Gromyko, coupled with Mr. Khrushchev's speech, has given no new hope to the Western delegations for a solution."

In Moscow, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said if Russia is forced to sign a peace treaty with East Germany it would be an "illusion" for the West to believe its rights of communications with West Berlin would remain.

East Germany, he said, would become a sovereign nation through a peace treaty and it would be up to the East Germans to decide on the maintenance of Berlin's communications.

His plan would be to thrash out with President Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle and possibly Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the West's next move in negotiations with Russia.

A secondary aim would be to resolve American and British disagreement with France over locating nuclear warhead stockpiles on French territory.

De Gaulle has refused to accept these stockpiles unless France has a voice in their control.

Macmillan is expected to press his Allies to agree to a conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev regardless of Geneva results. It is widely known that Macmillan believes top-level East-West talks offer the best chance to settle the Berlin crisis.

Speaker Refuses Probe

Pearson Overruled
On Whip's Conduct

OTTAWA (CP)—Commons Speaker Roland Michener today rejected Opposition Leader Pearson's motion of privilege calling for a parliamentary inquiry into the conduct of government whip John Pallett.

Mr. Pearson immediately appealed the Speaker's ruling and the House divided for a vote.

The Speaker was upheld by a vote of 131 to 32 with the three CCF MPs in the Commons at the time splitting. Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) and Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) voted with the government majority and H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) sided with the Liberals.

'UNPRECEDENTED'

This was the first time a Speaker's ruling had been appealed since the 1956 pipeline debate during the former Liberal administration when there were 234 appeals of rulings.

Crowds Line Route

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made a one-hour visit to this busy airport today as they flew across Newfoundland on the first leg of their Canadian tour.

Most of Gander's 5,000 residents and several thousand more from neighboring districts lined the streets as they made a 30-minute drive through the town.

Earlier the Queen officially opened the new $3,500,000 terminal at Gander international airport.

Then the RCAF plane carrying them westward across the province flew to Deer Lake, 34 miles from Corner Brook. They drove into Corner Brook by car along the beautiful Humber River.

WHOLE TOWN OUT
It appeared that all the 3,500 citizens of Deer Lake were lining the town streets as the royal car drove slowly past. The Queen waved and smiled at the flag-waving children filling the front ranks.

The Queen and prince smiled broadly and waved to the crowd as they boarded the plane at Gander. Philip, who had dropped behind the Queen, ran halfway to the ramp.

They flew to Gander under leaden skies. The fog that threatened to disrupt proceedings Thursday still clung to the coastline.

She wore a light topcoat, white hat and a coral-colored dress with three strands of pearls.

She entered the building with Mr. Hees, waving a greeting to a group of about 50 airport employees standing behind an RCAF guard of honor.

RCMP maintained a tight rein on the crowd. Only reporters bearing Royal Tour credentials for all parts of Canada were admitted to the area where the opening ceremony took place.

(See Also Page 31)

OTTAWA (CP)—Deportation of United States-born Hal C. Banks, Canadian head of the Seafarers' International Union, was suggested today in the Commons.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) proposed deportation to Immigration Minister Fairclough, who promptly replied that she has no legal authority to kick Banks out of the country.

There was applause from every quarter of the Commons when Mr. Herridge made his suggestion. Banks' 12,000-member union was suspended Thursday from the Canadian Labor Congress for raiding another congress affiliate, the National Association of Marine Engineers.

STEAMROLLER WIN

Record Vote For Socreds In Alberta

List of Elected MLAs Page 9

By PHIL ADLER, Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's Social Credit government almost wiped out all opposition forces Thursday, scoring one of the biggest general election landslides in Canadian politics.

A record vote gave the government its seventh consecutive five-year mandate by a margin greater than that of 1955 when Social Credit made its successful debut as a political party.

Opposition strength dropped to four from 24 in the last legislature and may stand at three when the first session is called. One Independent Social Creditor who retained his seat is expected to be taken back into ranks. He was read out in 1944.

Redistribution this year increased the number of seats in the new legislature by four to 65. Party standing at the dissolution of the last legislature was unchanged from the 1955 election result.

Social Credit's 61-seat victory was likened to the 1945 election in Nova Scotia when 28 Liberals and two CCF members were elected in the 30-seat House. When Social Credit came to power in 1955 it took 56 of the 63 seats at stake and wiped out the United Farmers of Alberta party.

STOOD ON RECORD
The government campaigned on its 24-year performance record while opposition candidates pledged more aid for municipalities, education and agriculture.

The leaders of all three opposition parties were defeated in their first general election since being chosen. And the election marked the first serious challenge for power by the Progressive Conservatives.

It was Social Credit's fifth election victory under the leadership of 51-year-old Premier E. C. Manning, who combines religious work with political duties.

Mr. Manning, who also holds the portfolios of attorney-general and minister of mines and minerals, was returned along with the 12 members of his cabinet.

The vote total was a record more than 406,000. An estimated 600,000 persons were eligible to cast ballots. The previous record was set in 1955 when 378,000 valid ballots were cast.

Mac Ready to Fly For Western Summit

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today was reported ready to fly to Washington or Paris for a Western summit meeting.

His plan would be to thrash out with President Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle and possibly Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the West's next move in negotiations with Russia.

A secondary aim would be to resolve American and British disagreement with France over locating nuclear warhead stockpiles on French territory.

Flag Protest Cancelled As Royal Insult Feared

MONTEREAL (CP)—La Presse says the report says the Royal Tour security committee felt that the demonstration, while well intentioned, might lead to "more serious troubles." The committee was said to fear that the words "sorry Canada has no flag" might be considered an insult to the Queen.

Claude Gousse, president of the flag movement, said that his group will bow to the security committee's order and will cancel the planned demonstration.

But the society claimed it was successful in another of its projects—the elimination of the Union Jack from decorations on business establishments and schools. Flags provided for children along the route to be followed by the Queen also would not include the Union Jack.

Research, luck, pay off for Mrs. Leslie Schley.

Sailor's Wife Scores With Perfect Game

By MONTE ROBERTS

Mrs. Leslie Schley, of 10163 Third Avenue, Sidney, won the top prize of $500 in the Times silhouette contest and she just can't believe it.

Not only did she win first prize, her entry was the one perfect score. She matched every one of the 60 silhouettes with the correct photo.

Other prize winners had varying numbers of errors. Winning puzzle-contests is a habit she's been trying to cultivate for years.

But, until her victory in the silhouette contest, she had baffled a miserably 000.

"This is my very first win," she said, when told the $500 was hers. "I can't believe it, really I can't."

Mrs. Schley found it even harder to believe that her score was 100 per cent correct.

"I honestly don't know how it happened," she said. "I was reasonably sure I was right with some of the puzzles. But the day before I sent in my entry, there were more than a dozen—I think about 16—that just didn't seem to match up."

GUESSED
So Mrs. Schley and her husband, Leslie, a leading seaman attached to the navy air base at Patricia Bay, sat down together and "just matched them up by guessing."

The odds against being exactly right were astronomical.

Winners of $750 in prizes in the Times Silhouette Contest were announced today.

More than 800 people followed the contest faithfully for 10 weeks and submitted complete entries.

Here are the money winners:

Second prize, $100: Mrs. W. J. Goldsmith, 3903 Braefoot Road.

Third prize, $50: Mrs. A. E. Roos, 1770 Keith Place.

Consolations, four of $25: Mrs. J. L. Wightman, 3795 Duke Road; I. Brownlee, 5036 Sunrise Terrace, Cordova Bay; John Eaton, 1311 George Street, and Margaret Nicholson, no address listed.

(Mr. or Miss Nicholson is asked to contact the Times and identify herself. Cheques to other winners will be mailed immediately.)

The judges announced that the correct answers to the 60 silhouettes will continue to appear daily until completed so that all contestants may check their answers.

But every guess was on the button.

Mrs. Schley explained that she and Leslie did a considerable amount of research on the rest of the puzzles. They studied newspapers and magazines to identify the profiles and match them up with the correct numbers.

"But it was simply a matter of luck," Mrs. Schley insists. "I've never been lucky before, and for years I've entered every contest that came along."

The Schleys were married

ANNUAL RACE

Princess Rides Alone

ASCOT, England. (AP)—Princess Margaret rode her annual race at the Royal Ascot track today—but without her usual opponent, the Queen.

For two years straight Margaret and her sister have staged an unofficial race at Ascot. Today the Queen was in Canada.

In the earlier races, Margaret was the winner.

Today, riding a black horse, the pretty princess trotted and cantered around the course with a party of friends.

PRAYER FOR TODAY
As today rushes in upon us with its strident demands, help us to "Be still and know that Thou art God." As the crowd presses about us, help us to look up above to see Thee so that we can turn to our task with the knowledge of Thy care, the assurance of Thy guidance, and the promise of Thy strength to augment our weakness through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

OL' VIC SAYS:
Looks like th' Alberta premier has his own manning pool for th' ship o' state.

At Geneva, a recess ain't a very good substitute for a success.

Base Metals Slip To Low for 1959

Base metals slipped to a low point today as trading turned mixed in light mid-afternoon trading.

The 2 p.m. volume was 2,170,000 shares, compared with Thursday's 1,924,000 at the same hour.

Radiore featured speculation, rising 50 cents to $1.40 amid rumors of a discovery on its property in the Mattagami district of Quebec.

Refining oils and pipelines were easier among industrials, but most groups were mixed, Canadian Salt and Canadian Tire each added 3 points while

Exports Boost To U.S. Offset By U.K. Losses

OTTAWA (UPI) — Despite the fourth consecutive monthly boost in shipments to the United States, Canadian exports dropped by some $19,700,000 in May, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

The bureau estimated total May exports at $434,500,000. It was about 10 per cent down from $484,200,000 a year ago.

Total exports for the first five months of the year dropped about three per cent to $1,896,800,000 from $1,952,800,000 a year earlier.

The gain of almost 10 per cent in exports to the United States during the month was more than offset by decreased sales elsewhere. Shipments to the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries were down from a year ago, while the "all other" countries category showed a sharp decline.

May exports by country, with 1958 figures in parentheses, were: United States $272,000,000 ($248,100,000); United Kingdom, $68,000,000 ($81,500,000); other Commonwealth countries, $25,900,000 ($30,500,000); and all other countries, $68,600,000 ($124,100,000).

AT VANCOUVER trading was quiet with slight price change during the forenoon. Beaver Lodge moved 3.90 at $1.68. Bethlehem Copper traded 2.60 at $1.68. Cowichan Copper sold 1.80 at 74. Silver Standard moved 2.00 at 36. Giant Mascot traded 1.40 at 24.

AT LONDON most sections were firm today. South African gold shares were a weak exception following the riots in Durban. Lossees were widespread and mainly the result of nervous marking down with no marked pressure to sell.

Gift-edged securities remained at improved levels. In the foreign section Greeks continued to attract buyers. Dollar stocks generally were irregular.

Offer by Ford Poses Problem For Canadians

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

Ford Motor Co. of Canada shareholders in Victoria, as well as those in other parts of Canada, face a sticky problem: Should they sell for a fast dollar or should they hold on in the expectation that the stock will increase in value?

The pros and cons of the situation arose June 1. Ford Motor Co. (U.S.) invited Canadian shareholders of Ford of Canada to sell at $188 per share. Since Ford of Canada shares were trading at about $144 at the time of the offer, some Canadian shareholders hastily accepted.

Others were less sure that Ford of Canada's U.S. "sugar daddy" was doing them a favor.

DOUBTS CAST

One of the skeptics is Ian F. McRae, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and an executive of an extremely successful Canadian subsidiary of a U.S. manufacturing enterprise. Mr. McRae posed this question at the annual meeting of CMA last week at St. Andrews, N.B.: "How much faith do Canadians have in Canadian efforts to develop the national economy?"

He was even more blunt. Canadians, he said, should keep their share in Ford of Canada, both from the investment point of view and as a matter of national interest.

Makes sense. It must be obvious that if Canadians as investors prefer a "fast dollar" which Ford (U.S.) is offering, to a continued stake in their own country's future potential, then manufacturers are wasting their time thinking and talking about national growth. Equally, they had better content themselves with making a dollar as fast as possible and let people in the U.S. or any place else, look after Canada's future.

U.S. companies must be watching the Ford move to see if Canadians are really serious in demanding a share for themselves in the future of the country or if all Canadians want is the speedy dollar.

IN THE BALANCE

If shareholders grasp the Ford (U.S.) offer, the efforts of executives who have been trying to convince their parent U.S. companies that it would be wise to allow Canadians to participate as shareholders in the future growth of the Canadian operation will go "down the chute."

From the investment point of view, look at the offer through the eyes of a man—not a young man—who has held Ford of Canada shares for a long time.

Last fall when Ford of Canada shares were down on the market, he bought more of them at $75 per share. When Ford (U.S.) offered to take some or all of his shares he took a good look at his position and said "no thanks."

"I still believe," he said, "this country and the better industries in it have a future."

"If Ford (U.S.) did not also hold that view, no offer would have been made for the shares."

Rotarians and Chamber of Commerce members have heard some flowery-tongued after-dinner speakers over the years. But few can compare with Frank Branch Riley, self-styled historian and traveller, who spoke to them Thursday.

A Harvard lawyer with accent to match, Mr. Riley delivered a courtroom-style resume of how "this great America" came to be discovered. None of his remarks, however, carried as memorable a phrase as his opening salvo.

Four Firms Back Peace River Bid For Oil Pipeline

Application of Peace River Pipelines Co. (B.C.) Ltd. for a permit to pipe crude oil into Alberta from the oil fields of northeastern B.C. was supported Wednesday by four Calgary-based oil companies.

The application, one of four being heard by a department of commercial transport board at the Legislative Buildings, will be presented Monday.

The companies favoring the Peace River proposal are Mobile Oil of Canada, Triad Oil, Sinclair Canada Oil Company and Sun Oil Company. Each of these firms has producing wells in Milligan Creek, Beaton River, Botondary Lake, or Doig River fields of B.C.

To Attend Convention

'GREATEST INFLATION OF INTEREST'

Premier Bennett charged the federal government Thursday with "causing the greatest inflation of interest rates in the history of Canada."

He said the cost of short-term money had risen from one-half of 1 per cent to 5.68 per cent.

"Yet the Conservatives promised to reduce interest rates and do away with tight money."

The federal government has brought tighter money and higher interest rates than even that terrible Liberal government that kicked out two years ago, the premier said.

"I greet you," he said, "in the words of the clairvoyant speaking to his deceased friend . . . 'how in hell are you?'"

Industry Warned To Watch Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner warned Wednesday that B.C. must pay attention to the costs of its products if the province is to expect a fair share of world markets.

He told the Vancouver Real Estate Board that the post-war recovery of European industry, and creation of the European Common Market are "something that we ignore at our peril."

Mr. Bonner said the province must also take "a long hard look" at its financial requirements at municipal, school board and provincial levels.

This was because of a "reappearance of what I can only call very hard money indeed."

"It is an awfully good time to keep our commercial heads," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general told reporters later that "whenever labor demands exceed industrial productivity the only result can be damage to the provincial economy. You don't create income out of nothing."

He told the meeting that 70 per cent of the provincial income depended upon B.C. trading successfully with the world.

Chatterton Hits Out At Former Reeve's 'Dark Age' Thinking

On the eve of the Saanich by-election, Reeve George Chatterton today lashed out at the by-election platform of ex-reeve Joseph Casey as "retrograde" and "harking back to the dark ages."

About 21,000 ratepayers are eligible to vote at the polls Saturday to elect one of seven candidates seeking election on a council seat left vacant by the resignation of Charles Nelles.

At the same time about 3,300 ratepayers in the Shelbourne-Gordon Head-Cadboro Bay districts are entitled to vote on a $1,066,000 sewer by-law.

BREAKS SILENCE

Vote on the by-law is confined to people living in the proposed sewer district. Polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

The reeve, who refrained from commenting on attacks on his council's policies during this week's by-election campaign, broke silence today on some of the controversial issues involved.

"In view of the wild statements made by Mr. Casey and some of the candidates in the by-election, I have been asked by council to make a reply," he said.

Reeve Chatterton said Mr. Casey's attitude towards the proper planning and development of Saanich was almost "criminal" and lacking in foresight.

He charged the retired B.C. Electric official with trying to convey to the people of Saanich that huge sums of money are being spent on town planning.

NOT ENOUGH

"The truth is that Saanich in the last eight years has spent $31,000 on planning," he said. "We are not spending enough."

"Mr. Casey said planning is a lot of bunk," he added. "People should beware of a man with that sort of an attitude."

Reeve Chatterton pointed out that private business spends 10 per cent of its costs on planning a project.

"Here in Saanich we have an asset of $100,000,000, and he (Mr. Casey) suggests that we should not plan for proper development," he said. "A great deal of the problems and heavy expenditures of today were caused by the complete lack of planning in the past."

POLICY

The reeve said ratepayers are at least entitled to a policy for the proper development of their municipality.

Casey for opposing the proposed sewer project in the Shelbourne-Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head area. (Mr. Casey said the sewer project was premature.)

Reeve-Chatterton noted the municipal engineer estimated it cost 100 per cent more to install sewers on fully developed land.

The reeve also accused Mr. Casey of conveying a misleading impression that the Saanich building inspection department is over-staffed.

"Anyone who stands for less inspection of buildings is not acting in the interest of the people," he said. "People demand a certain protection from council when it comes to buildings."

He said a great deal of septic tank and sanitary problems in Saanich today were due to inadequate inspection or supervision in the past.

"Does Mr. Casey suggest that we do away with percolation tests of soils," he asked. "If Mr. Casey felt any moral obligation to home owners he would think differently."

"In my opinion Mr. Casey's policies are dangerous and not in the interest of the public."

Atomic Power Plant For B.C. Far Away

By PETE LOUDON

Atomic production of electrical energy is years away in British Columbia despite federal plans to locate an atomic power station in Ontario.

The House of Commons was told Thursday that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will pay part of a $60,000,000 cost of a 200,000 kilowatt station expected to be completed in 1964 at an undetermined site.

Trade Minister Churchill said also the Maritimes and Manitoba may be considering similar atomic plants in the late 1960s.

B.C. Power Commission planning engineer, A. W. Lash, said today, however, any such development would be uneconomic in B.C. at least until present hydro resources are used up.

EXPENSIVE

Development of atomic power in its early stages would be far more expensive than development of hydro reserves such as the Columbia, the Homathko and the Clearwater, to name just a few, he said.

"The situation is different in Ontario—their hydro reserves are used up. They have to use what is available."

Mr. Lash is currently serving on a 12-man sub-committee set up by the International Joint Commission to assist in preliminary dealings in the proposed development of Columbia River hydro.

He and B.C. Water Commissioner A. F. Paget are B.C. representatives on a committee which includes six Canadians and six American delegates.

They met recently in Portland.

Following announcement last week by Gen. A. G. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the IJC, that international talks are moving toward agreement for return to B.C. of 50 per cent of U.S. benefits if the Columbia is dammed, the sub-committee is seeking to determine the volume of the power benefit in its entirety. No findings have yet been announced.

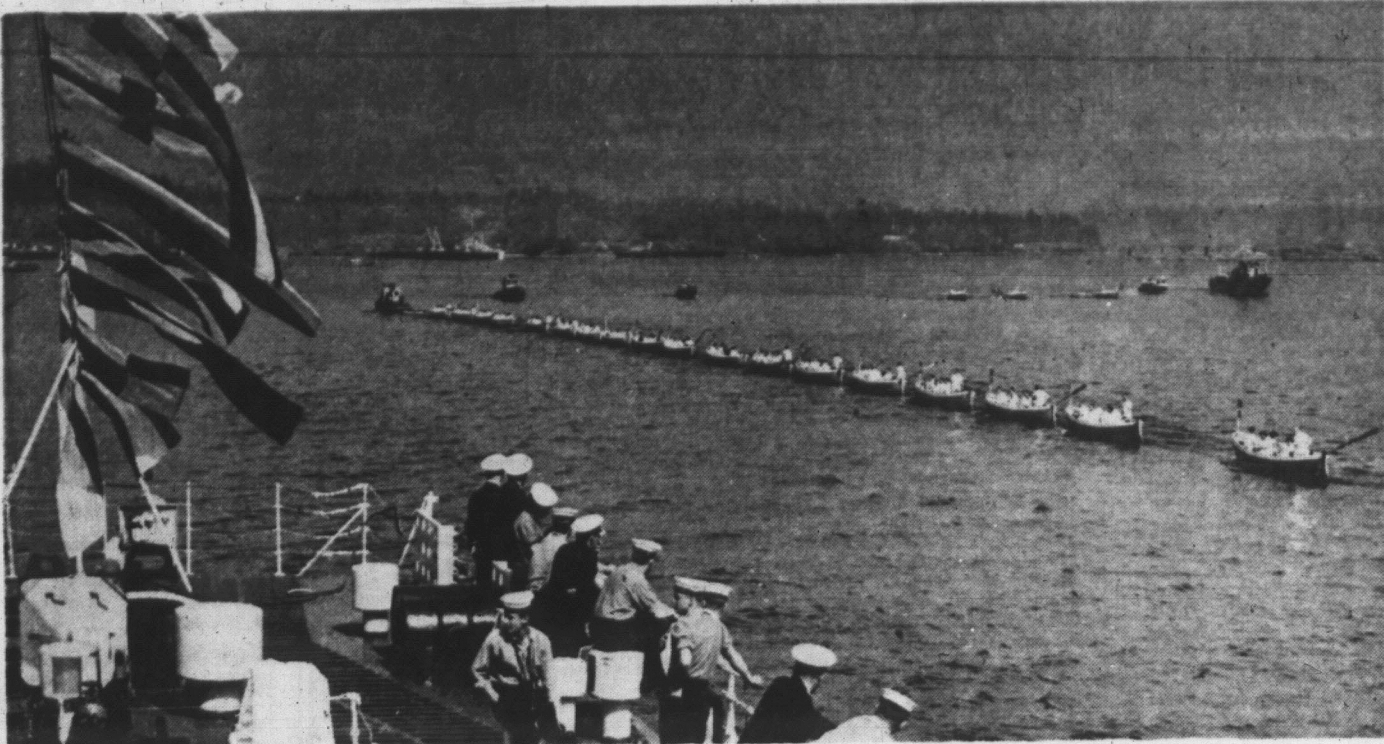

Two Saves In Day for Boat Crew

Two rescue missions were completed successfully Thursday in waters offshore from Tofino by the transport department Tofino-based lifeboat, skippered by Coxswain R. Hagelin.

The first was in mid-afternoon, after Jack Walter and Robert Douglas, both of Tofino, hit a swell near Leonard Island light which tore the bottom out of their speedboat.

They were taken to safety aboard a fishboat, but transferred to the lifeboat when it answered their call for help. The lifeboat also towed the wrecked craft, otherwise a navigation menace, to Tofino Harbor for repairs.

Second call came at 11 p.m., when it went to the aid of the trawler Dolores K. whose skipper, J. Keillach of Ahousat, had reported engine trouble between Tofino and Ahousat. The stricken craft was towed to safety.

Annual RCN Pacific Command fleet regatta got down to serious business today of pulling sweeps in heavy whalers as ship and shore establishments compete for Cock-of-the-Fleet Trophy now held by HMCS Beacon Hill. Sailing events were run off Thursday, with two top "brass" scoring wins. Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, Flag Officer, and Commodore John Deane, Dockyard superintendent, were winning skippers. At noon today, Beacon Hill was again leading with 73,742 points, but being hard pressed by HMCS Naden (73,272 points) and HMCS Sussexvale (72,014). (Times Photo by Halkett.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I hate to come right out and say this, with my bare print showing, but I am afraid our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor is derelict in his duties.

(To be truthful, I sometimes wonder if our V-W-A Editor holds his job only because he is a cousin of Horace Snifkin.)

Any way you look at it, our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor should have done something with the business section of the current issue of Time Magazine.

Item: Time reports a contraption which cooks hot dogs in 90 seconds by the use of electrodes.

Item: Time reports a motorized bed that wakes the sleeper in the morning by raising him to a sitting position. And at the same time turns on the radio, TV, coffee percolator, and phonograph.

Item: Time reports a "spill-proof" baby training spoon with a swivel-action grip that keeps the spoon level no matter how the baby grips it.

You are beginning to see why our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor has fallen down on the job.

Long before now, he should have pointed out the dangers inherent in the alleged technological advances noted above.

He should have Viewed With Alarm the baby whose first grasp on life is a chubby hand-clasping a swivel-handled spoon, which fails to spill no matter what the poor baby does in his effort to splatter pabulum on the floor.

This baby, obviously, will grow to manhood with the impression that every side is up, whether it be down, sideways, or at 45 degrees.

The time will come, of course, when the baby born to the swivel-handled spoon will encounter his first swizzle stick.

At which time he will not know whether to swivel, swizzle, or sizzle.

Which brings us to the 90-second hot dog, a revolting thought if ever I heard one.

To enjoy a hot dog, even a swivel-spoon baby has to be hungry, and nobody can get hot-dog hungry in 90 seconds.

Then, to top it all, our Viewing-With-Alarm Editor should have contemplated the effect of the bed which sits up, turns on the radio, TV, phonograph and coffee percolator.

Think what this will do to the already-shattered nerves of the swivel-spoon baby.

Slave of the spoon which will not spill, captive of the 90-second hot dog, he is now automatically raised to a sitting position with coffee at the ready.

When he would much rather have stood in bed with a good cup of tea.

I think it's time Horace Snifkin's cousin got back to his business of Viewing With Alarm.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—Could you please tell me if tobacco is raised in B.C.?

A—Yes, it has been raised in limited quantities in the Fraser Valley and Okanagan Valley.

Q—Is the section of wooden sidewalk on Blanshard between Collinson and Humboldt the last of the old wooden sidewalks in Victoria? B.E.M.

A—No, but there are considerably less than two miles of the old sidewalks, scattered throughout the city with the majority in Victoria West. No record is kept as to exactly where they are located.

Federal Farm Services Amalgamate

Dominion Experimental Farm near Sidney will be known after next April 1 as a federal Agricultural Research Farm, superintendent J. J. Woods announced Thursday night.

Speaking at a gathering of Farmers' Institute members at the farm, he said an amalgamation move will bring together the farm, the plant pathology laboratory, and the entomological laboratory in Victoria. The combined organization will be under his jurisdiction, he said.

The function of the three federal departments—research to benefit island farmers—will be unchanged, but the three groups will be in closer liaison and "an improved team approach" to problems will be possible, Mr. Woods stated.

The Experimental Farm was toured by Saanich and South Vancouver Island Farmers' Institute members and invited representatives from Farmers' Institutes at Metehosin and Gobbie Hill.

Capt. C. R. Wilson, 8433 Ben Gordon, addressed the group on various problems facing farmers in B.C.

One Day in Jail, Fine of $75 For Break-In

Robert Enright, 21, of 1601 Esquimalt, today was sentenced to one day in jail and a $75 fine for breaking and entering a service station here a week ago.

He was found by police with three keys on his person, and one key in a car on the property. Nothing else was missing from the service station. Enright had already spent five days in jail pending a probation report.

PERNICKETY GUN PLAYS LEAD ROLE

Will the gun go boom? Will the gun go phfft? Or will the gun just sit there and do nothing at all?

This tense drama will be played out at the Legislative Buildings this evening when the 5th (B.C.) Independent Medium Battery, RCA, carries out the sunset ceremony.

The gun in question is a muzzle-loading cannon, made in 1879, which refused to fire at the sunset ceremony a week ago. But, as one of the gun crew, WO1 Leonard Griffiths explains, "anyone in her 81st year is entitled to a night off."

The gunners are hoping for a bang-up time tonight, starting at 8.45.

Freedom Leap Ends in Front Of Magistrate

A trio of young men got the jump on city police early today but they wound up in custody anyway.

While being pursued by Const. R. L. Redman, the three jumped off the roof of Fashion Cleaners, 758 Yates, beside the Ocean Theatre, breaking neon lights valued at $67 in their 25-foot drop to the ground.

William Charles Ruthven and Robert Gary Brown, 1601 Esquimalt, and Ronald Lorne Ruthven, 833 Admirals, all pleaded guilty in city police court to causing wilful damage over $50.

Const. Redman told court while on patrol he heard a noise at the rear of the theatre at about 12:40 a.m. and investigated.

KEPT GOING

He saw the three climbing a ladder to the roof, shouted for them to come down, and when they kept going, followed after, calling headquarters for assistance.

The three went from the theatre roof to the roof of Fashion Cleaners, where they made their leap for freedom, breaking the neon lights en route.

Their jump was almost into the arms of city detectives, but the three took off anyway and were captured in a nearby used car lot.

One of the three limped noticeably into the prisoners' dock.

They were remanded to next Wednesday for a probation report and sentence.

Six-Month Term For Selling Stolen Cigarets

A salesman of stolen cigarettes, Frank Rosemus, Lincoln Hotel, received a six months' jail sentence in city police court today.

Rosemus had been peddling cigarettes stolen during a break-in at the curling club—76 packages of them—at 15 cents a package. He had told police he bought them, knowing the smoke to be stolen, at 10 cents a package.

He did not identify his "wholesaler."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Louie Gee, 1358 Gladstone, careless driving, $40.

Grant Robert Reed, 1112 Cook, over 30 mph, $20.

Harold Robson Gent, 18, of 2819 Richmond, was fined $15 in city police court Thursday, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor.

Police said Gent had nine bottles of beer in his car.

Long-Time Sally Ann Member Dies

Mrs. Isabella Collier, 92, member of the Salvation Army for more than 70 years, died here Thursday after eight years of residence in the city.

Born in Watford, Ont., both she and her husband, the late Envoy Thomas H. Collier, volunteered for officership in the Army shortly after it was founded in Canada, and they were married at St. John's in the first Salvation Army wedding conducted in Newfoundland.

After many years as senior executive officers in Salvation Army appointments throughout Canada, and because of their social service experience, they were chosen by the B.C. government in 1913 as superintendents and matrons of the Girls' Industrial School in Vancouver.

Surviving are two sons, Reeve Stanley G. Collier of West Vancouver, and Col. Bramwell Collier, with the Salvation Army in Pasadena, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Gladys E. Rice, 2179 Pentland Road, with whom Mrs. Collier made her home.

The funeral will be held at Harron Bros. Chapel in Vancouver, Monday at 1 p.m. Arrangements were made here by Sands Mortuary Ltd.

Youth Facing Charges After Hit-and-Run

Charges are pending against a 20-year-old driver of a car which hit a power pole about midnight Thursday doing extensive damage to the vehicle and snapping the pole at its base.

The driver ran away from the accident scene.

The crash took place at Bay and Cook, bringing startled pyjama-clad residents of the area out of bed.

The car driver was accompanied by a 15-year-old girl, police said. She also fled.

CHASED HIM

Mrs. Margaret Wright, 2525 Cook, offered the driver use of her telephone to call police, but he said "No thank you, I'm going to get one."

She chased him for two blocks and gave up pursuit when the youth dodged into bushes near Haultain and Empire.

The splintered pole was knocked 15 feet off centre.

AT OREGON CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS

'Great Welcome Awaits Canadians'

The Pacific Northwest is "the one area in the United States which was realized by occupation," Victoria Rotarians were told by Portland attorney-lecturer Frank Branch Riley at their weekly meeting Thursday.

"We bought Louisiana from Napoleon, fought for the New England states, acquired New Mexico from the Mexicans and bought Alaska from the Russians," Mr. Riley told his audience.

"The Northwest was settled peacefully by the indomitable pioneers of the old Oregon Trail, and it is the jewel of them all."

Mr. Riley told Rotarians that "a great welcome awaited Canadians" at the Oregon Centennial, now in progress.

"It occupies 65 acres and has exhibits from 26 countries," the speaker said. "We have put together the finest trade fair in America."

"For 100 days we are reliving the glorious days of the wagon trains. The mail is being delivered today by stage coach. The magnificent Columbia is being traversed by Indians in war canoes. Ancient forts have been recreated."

neighboring state, Mr. Riley said that it contained one-fifth of the standing timber in America today, enough to build a home for every American and put a fence around it," and much had been preserved in national parks.

The Columbia, he said, provided more electric ranges per capita for Portland's 420,000 citizens than the 8,000,000 people of New York.

The speaker, introduced by George Warren, drew a hearty laugh from his audience when he spoke in dramatic tones of the glories of Victoria, and then said:

"For the past five minutes I have been quoting publicity notes as supplied by my old friend George."

Record Vote For Socreds In Alberta

List of Elected MLAs Page 9

By PHIL ADLER, Canadian Press Staff Writer
EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's Social Credit government almost wiped out all opposition forces Thursday, scoring one of the biggest general election landslide in Canadian politics.

A record vote gave the government its seventh consecutive five-year mandate by a margin greater than that of 1955 when Social Credit made its successful debut as a political party.

Opposition strength dropped to four from 24 in the last legislature and may stand at three when the first session is called. One Independent Social Creditor who retained his seat is expected to be taken back into ranks. He was read out in 1944.

Redistribution this year increased the number of seats in the new legislature by four to 65. Party standing at the dissolution of the last legislature was unchanged from the 1955 election result.

Social Credit's 61-seat victory was likened to the 1945 election in Nova Scotia when 28 Liberals and two CCF members were elected in the 30-seat House. When Social Credit came to power in 1955 it took 36 of the 63 seats at Continued on Page 30

Queen Opens Airport

Crowds Line Route Across Newfoundland

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made a one-hour visit to this busy airport today as they flew across Newfoundland on the first leg of their Canadian tour.

Most of Gander's 5,000 residents and several thousand more from neighboring districts lined the streets as they made a 30-minute drive through the town.

Earlier the Queen officially opened the new $3,500,000 terminal at Gander International airport.

Then the RCAF plane carrying them westward across the province flew to Deer Lake, 34 miles from Corner Brook. They drove into Corner Brook by car along the beautiful Humber River.

WHOLE TOWN OUT

It appeared that all the 3,500 citizens of Deer Lake were lining the town streets as the royal car drove slowly past. The Queen waved and smiled at the flag-waving children filling the front ranks.

The Queen and prince smiled broadly and waved to the crowd as they boarded the plane at Gander. Philip, who had dropped behind the Queen, ran halfway to the ramp.

They flew to Gander under leaden skies. The fog that threatened to disrupt proceedings Thursday still clung to the coastline.

A small group of about 14 officials clustered at the foot of the ramp as the Queen descended, smiling warmly. She wore a light topcoat, white hat and a coral-colored dress with three strands of pearls.

She entered the building with Mr. Hees, waving a greeting to a group of about 50 airport employees standing behind an RCAF guard of honor.

RCMP maintained a tight rein on the crowd. Only re-

The report says the Royal Tour security committee felt that the demonstration, while well intentioned, might lead to "more serious troubles." The committee was said to fear that the words "sorry Canada has no flag" might be considered an insult to the Queen.

Claude Gousse, president of the flag movement, said that his group will bow to the security committee's order and will cancel the planned demonstration.

But the society claimed it was successful in another of its projects—the elimination of the Union Jack from decorations on business establishments and schools. Flags provided for children along the route to be followed by the Queen also would not include the Union Jack.

Research, luck, pay off for Mrs. Leslie Schley.

Sailor's Wife Scores With Perfect Game

By MONTE ROBERTS

Mrs. Leslie Schley, of 10 136 Third Avenue, Sidney, won the top prize of $500 in the Times Silhouette contest and she just can't believe it.

Not only did she win first prize. Her entry was the one perfect score. She matched every one of the 60 silhouettes with the correct photo.

Other prize winners had varying numbers of errors.

Winning puzzle contests is a habit she's been trying to cultivate for years.

But, until her victory in the silhouette contest, she had batted a miserable .000.

"This is my very first win," she said, when told the $500 was hers. "I can't believe it, really I can't."

Mrs. Schley found it even harder to believe that her score was 100 per cent correct.

"I honestly don't know how it happened," she said. "I was reasonably sure I was right with some of the puzzles. But the day before I sent in my entry, there were more than a dozen 'I think about 16—that just didn't seem to match up.' So Mrs. Schley and her husband, Leslie, a leading seaman attached to the navy air base at Patricia Bay, sat down together and 'just matched them up by guessing.'"

The odds against being exactly right were astronomical—but every guess was on the button.

Mrs. Schley explained that she and Leslie did a considerable amount of research on

Winners of $750 in prizes in the Times Silhouette Contest were announced today.

More than 800 people followed the contest faithfully for 10 weeks and submitted complete entries.

Here are the money winners:

Second prize, $100: Mrs. W. J. Goldsmith, 3903 Braefoot Road.

Third prize, $50: Mrs. A. E. Roos, 1770 Keith Place.

Consolations, four of $25: Mrs. J. L. Wightman, 3795 Duke Road; L. Brownlee, 5036 Sunrise Terrace, Cordova Bay; John Eaton, 1311 George Street; and Margaret Nicholson, no address listed.

(Mrs. or Miss Nicholson is asked to contact the Times and identify herself. Cheques to other winners will be mailed immediately.)

The judges announced that the correct answers to the 60 silhouettes will continue to appear daily until completed so that all contestants may check their answers.

The rest of the puzzles. They studied newspapers and magazines to identify the profiles and match them up with the correct numbers.

"But it was simply a matter of luck," Mrs. Schley insists. "I've never been lucky before, and for years I've entered every contest that came along."

The Schleys were married in Nova Scotia, when LS Schley was training at HMCS Cornwallis. He was posted to Patricia Bay last August, and they became Times subscribers the day they arrived here.

The Schleys have a four-year-old son, love Vancouver Island and hope they'll never be transferred.

As for the $500 prize, Mrs. Schley says "there are lots of places we can use it."

Currently she is taking part in a nationwide contest with a 1959 car as first prize.

"But I won't be lucky again. I'm sure I won't," perennially pessimistic Mrs. Schley avers.

West Rebuffs Reds' Berlin Time Limit

GENEVA (AP)—The West rebuffed today the new Soviet proposal to set a time limit on the Allied occupation of West Berlin, and obtained a three-week recess of the Big Four conference.

In a statement presented to Foreign Minister Gromyko, the Western powers made clear that they have no intention of agreeing to "the liquidation of their rights in Berlin and the abandonment of their responsibilities for maintaining the freedom of the people of West Berlin."

A proposal put forth by Gromyko today would freeze the present Berlin situation for 18 months and provide for negotiations among the Big Four at the end of that time.

But in the Western view, Russia would then be free to take whatever action it wished on the issue and the Western powers would be left "without any rights" with respect to West Berlin and its access routes.

WIND UP SATURDAY

The four ministers agreed to put their positions before world public opinion at a formal plenary session Saturday. They will then recess until July 13.

At the sessions this afternoon, the Soviet foreign minister brushed aside the Western compromise plan for Berlin put forward earlier this week.

A speech in Moscow today by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, apparently finally rejecting the West's compromise offer, added to the gloom at Geneva.

The British spokesman said: "Mr. Gromyko has not accepted the Western proposals for an interim solution of the Berlin problem even as a basis for discussion."

"Furthermore, the Soviet position as put forward this afternoon by Mr. Gromyko, coupled with Mr. Khrushchev's speech, has given no new hope to the Western delegations for a solution."

In Moscow, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said if Russia is forced to sign a peace treaty with East Germany it would be an "illusion" for the West to believe its rights of communications with West Berlin would remain.

East Germany, he said, would become a sovereign nation through a peace treaty and it would be up to the East Germans to decide on the maintenance of Berlin's communications.

Speaker Refuses Inquiry

Pearson Overruled On Whip's Conduct

OTTAWA (CP)—Commons Speaker Roland Michener today rejected Opposition Leader Pearson's motion of privilege calling for a parliamentary inquiry into the conduct of government whip John Pallett.

Mr. Pearson immediately appealed the Speaker's ruling and the House divided for a vote.

The Speaker was upheld by a vote of 131 to 32 with the three CCF MPs in the Commons at the time, splitting, Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) and Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) voted with the government majority and H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) sided with the Liberals.

UNPRECEDENTED

This was the first time a Speaker's ruling had been appealed since the 1956 pipeline debate during the former Liberal administration when there were 234 appeals of ruling.

OTTAWA (CP)—Deportation of United States-born Hal C. Banks, Canadian head of the Seafarers' International Union, was suggested today in the Commons.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) proposed deportation to Immigration Minister Fairclough, who promptly replied that she has no legal authority to kick Banks out of the country.

There was applause from every quarter of the Commons when Mr. Herridge made his suggestion. Banks' 12,000-member union was suspended Thursday from the Canadian Labor Congress for raiding another congress affiliate, the National Association of Marine Engineers.

Flag Protest Cancelled As Royal Insult Feared

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse says Royal Tour security officials have ordered cancellation of a demonstration planned in the Saguenay area by students and young workers to draw the Queen's attention to what they described as Canada's lack of a national flag.

A report from the newspaper's Chicoutimi, Que., correspondent says that the demonstration was planned by 500 youths grouped together in a society for the promotion of a Canadian flag.

During the Queen's tour of the area early next week the youths planned to carry placards bearing this slogan in French and in English:

"Bienvenue a notre Souveraine—welcome to our Queen"; "Domage le Canada
